WE NOMINATE

Clark Eugene Bricker, 39-year old research chemist and possible the only Princeton University professor ever to serve for a full decade as an active member of the Borough of Princeton's volunteer Fire Department, who in the summer weeks ahead will direct the first New Jersey—Princeton University Summer Institute in Chemistry. A key figure in the field of modern analytical chemistry, with a mounting reputation for his contributions in such areas as the analysis of organic compounds, Bricker in a six-week period (beginning June 30th and continuing until August 8th) will be concerned with bringing some 40 New Jersey high school teachers of chemistry into direct contact with men engaged in pushing back the frontiers of scientific knowledge.

A "veteran" over the past two years of a half-dozen different summer institutes, ranging from sessions at the University of North Carolina and Oregon State University to gatherings at Swarthmore, Bucknell and New Hampshire, Bricker—now a resident of Penns Neck—insists that the acquisition of substantive knowledge is infinitely more important than mechanical teaching-methods. It is his conviction that the upcoming teachers' institute, the first the University has sponsored in peacetime, assumes added significance as teachers develop first-hand contacts with creative scientists, exchange information with one another and actually "work with their hands" in mastering laboratory techniques which have been developed in recent years.

Bricker, a native of Shrewsbury, Pa., and a Phi Beta Kappa, baseball-loving member of the Class of 1939 at Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, Pa., first saw Princeton as a graduate student in 1940 after he had taken his Master of Science at Haverford College. He remained here for some three years, earning his advanced degrees and working as a research assistant with the Manhattan (A-Bomb) Project. From 1943 until 1946, headquartered in Garfield, N. J., he engaged in research with the Heyden Chemical Corporation and, prior to "signing on" with the University's Department of Chemistry for the opening of the academic year 1948-49, taught for three years in the Johns Hopkins University.

A positive influence in the profession of teaching and research, who radiates the belief that the individual student must handle assignments commensurate with his abilities and experience, the versatile Bricker resigned this past February from membership in Princeton's Hook and Ladder Company. Two years ago, on leave from Princeton as a consultant in analytical chemistry in the Los Alamos Laboratories, New Mexico, he relinquished his posts in the First Presbyterian Church. He had previously been a ruling elder and a member of the board of deacons of the 203-year old church he had joined while studying here as a graduate student in the early 1940's.

For enthusiastically undertaking a new role as a teachers' teacher; for understanding all that is at stake in a venture dedicated in the last analysis to the development of the young talent so desperately needed by this country; for linking the best interests of public and privately sustained education; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

QUIET BROKEN

Police Kept an the Go. The traditionally quiet, calm community of Princeton, which usually limits itself to verbal outbreaks, broke out in a rash of serious, physical incidents this past week that had the area's police hopping. As a matter of fact, another similarly active week is not likely to come along for a lengthy spell, and the law enforcers hope it will be even longer than that.

Chronologically, these are the events which kept Princeton's police very much on the go:

● During the night of April 29-May 1, Borough officers were summoned to put the finishing touches on a University campus dispute between several undergraduates and two Philadelphia burlesque performers. This situation became aggravated when one of the entertainers leaped out of a second-story window at Borough Hall.

● Almost simultaneously, other Borough officers were required to arrest five Princeton youths who topped off an argument over "girls" with a carload of Trenton boys by blasting the visitors' auto with a sawed-off shotgun.

● Shortly after 4 a.m. Saturday, Township policemen rushed to the Stony Brook bridge on Mercer Road, scene of many traffic mishaps, where a '58 sedan driven by John J. Bernstein, 30, of Trenton, left 95 feet of skid marks before crashing into the historic but ill-fated landmark.

● Saturday afternoon, while a birthday party was in progress on Alexander Road, State Police were called to investigate the tragic death of a six-year-old Princeton girl, caused when she was struck by a convertible operated by a 17-year-old Princeton High School student.

● About 7:30 p.m. Saturday, a Dugan's Bakery truck rolled over in spectacular fashion following a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of Washington and College Roads, another Township sorepoint, and, while injuries sustained by both motorists were slight, the accident snarled traffic for an hour or so.

● Tuesday afternoon, while working on construction of the new Unitarian Church, just off State Road, a 50-year-old Skillman resident fell through an eight-foot stairwell, landing in such a way that he suffered several painful injuries.

Innocent Start, Fast Finish. The week's peculiar activity began with the dancers from Philadelphia putting on a "girlie" show at an off-campus party honoring new members of a Princeton eating club. When some of the boys convinced the performers they should give Act II in a University dormitory, the situation headed for trouble. And later, when the entertainers debated the extent of their limited engagement with their hosts, police attention was required.

Taken to Borough Hall, Mrs. Judy Renee, 37, and her traveling companion, affectionately called "Bubbles," thought at first they would charge the students with something, then realized they might be in more chargeable trouble with the law themselves. They decided against complaint-signing, but only after Mrs. Renee, left alone briefly during the interrogation period, had jumped 25 feet to the ground outside and suffered a number of badly bruised bones. Still on the "fair" list at Princeton Hospital, she was said to be "improving" at mid-week.

With the sound of three shotgun blasts about midnight April 29,—Patrolmen Russell Shangle and Richard Panicaro hurried to Clay Street, where they succeeded in rounding up nine culprits —five Princetonians and four Trentonians—who have been involved in previous juvenile skirmishes. The officers found that two blasts didn't hit anything, but one peppered the radiator and front fenders of the Trenton car. Inside an auto occupied by the Princeton group, they located the weapon, 20 shotgun shells, a vicious-looking machette and a wooden club.

Consolidation Consolidators

Several New Jersey legislators are busy this week promoting a resolution that eventually could blow the lid right off the question of consolidation. Known as Assembly Joint Resolution No. 5 and first introduced back an February 10, it calls for the creation of "a commission . . . to study the subject of consolidation of municipalities" and provides for "reports and recommendations by the said commission to the Governor and the Legislature."

Establishment of such a State commission was proposed initially by those who believe "the consolidation of municipalities tends to eliminate unnecessary duplication of municipal activities and thereby ease the tax burden at the local level." Already, No. 5 is reported "out of committee" and is expected to receive the State Senate's prompt endorsement. If approval comes, it should cause quite a stir here in Princeton, where consolidation has remained an appetizing bone of contention for many years.

Certain legislators are concerned because "only a very few of the more than 500 municipalties of the State have taken advantage of . . . permissive legislation" to consolidate. They contend and hope the proposed commission will also contend—that "the legislative power to create, abolish, expand or contract a territorial area and to consolidate municipalities is supreme and unrestricted by constitutional limitations" and "may be exercised either with or without referendum to the people of the area to be affected according to the wish of the Legislature."

Arraigned Friday before Magistrate Theodore T. Tams Jr., four of the Princeton youths—Henry Pannell, 18, 72 Clay; Preston Evers, 18, 7 Lytle Street; Ronald Gillette, 19, 28 Clay; and Louis Thomas, 19, 18 Green Street—were placed under $3,000 bail each and referred to the Grand Jury for further investigation of charges of assault with a dangerous weapon and carrying a concealed weapon. The fifth boy, a juvenile, was sent directly to Juvenile Court in Trenton by Referee Howard W. Stepp, who promised several months ago he would tolerate no "hoodlumism" in Princeton. The four weaponless Trentonians were released.

Steps from Behind Parked Car. Susana Ponce de Leon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Ponce de Leon, Alexander Road, was hit and killed as she stepped from behind a parked car in front of her home after getting the family mail from a rural delivery box. Miss Joan Tredennick, 17, of 343 Snowden Lane, driver of the fatal auto, told Police she waa unable to stop her forward motion until she had dragged the victim some 50 feet. Attending a birthday party for her brother, Ignacio, 8, the little girl, whose mother is a United Nations aide from Colombia, had slipped out of the house unnoticed.

In Saturday's other horrible accident, Mr. Bernstein's car was virtally demolished as he swung into Stony Brook bridge with the full left side of the vehicle. Sgt. Anthony Nini and Patrolman Samuel Lisi said the driver was heading toward Trenton at the time, but was moving too fast to negotiate the sharp curve that leads onto the bridge. He was rushed by the First Aid Unit ambulance to Princeton Hospital, where he remains on the "critical" list, though "showing improvement," with fractures of the left leg, left arm, several ribs and internal injuries.

The complete right side of the Dugan's truck, operated by William J. Dietrick Jr., 37, of Beverly, was crushed following its roll-over Saturday evening. According to Township investigators, a sedan, driven by Charles T. Davis, 40, of 24 Dickinson Street, apparently misjudged the approach of the truck from the north and pulled into its path from College Road West. Both motorists swerved to avoid a direct hit, but they could not avoid the collision that occurred. Both were issued traffic summonses.

The First Aid Unit ambulance was called again Tuesday afternoon to speed John Schuler, 50, of Skillman, to Princeton Hospital from the Unitarian Church job. Working for Tower Construction Company, he had tumbled through the stairwell. Hospital officials said he sustained a possible fracture of the left shoulder and ribs and a possible spinal injury, but is in "satisfactory" condition.

PERSONALITIES

Andrew Imbrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Imbrie, 20 Hibben Road, and gifted Princeton-bred composer who earned rave notices last week for his "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra," a four-year effort which "shone in a galaxy of impressive premieres" at the festival dedicating the University of California's $2,200,000 music center at Berkeley. A former student of Roger Sessions, 70 Alexander Street, Mr. Imbrie—at 37 "a comparative unknown," in the words of Time magazine—was responsible for "the most exciting sounds" from all the composers giving performances, including Mr. Sessions.

Henry Chauncey, Rosedale Road, president of Educational Testing Service who left for Russia this Tuesday as a member of the 10-man team of educational experts that will spend the next month conducting the United States Government's first on-the-spot survey of education inside the Soviet Union. Sponsored by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the study by a "cross-section of education" will result in a detailed report, probably followed by a series of pamphlets, and will be the initial phase of a long-range exchange of educational experts and materials between the U.S. and Russia.

Kenneth Chorley, Brickhouse Farm, Blawenburg Road, "elder statesman of historical and educational restoration" who has announced he will retire from his post as pesident of Colonial Williamsburg, the restored early American village in Virginia, two weeks from now. Head of the $62 million project for the past 23 years, Mr. Chorley, who is also president of the Princeton Inn, will remain a trustee of Colonial Williamsburg, Inc., the corporation which directs the historical and educational program of the organization, and a director of Williamsburg Restoration, Inc., which is a business organization holding title to business properties outside the historic area.

ROUND-UP

AROUND TOWN: A report on the pending sale of Golden's Tavern, 254 Nassau Street, first noted in this column several weeks ago, was confirmed this past week with publication of the legal advertisement announcing that Peter P. Sannino, 16 Oakland Road, intends to purchase the business from its longtime proprietor, William W. Golden . . . the new owner, associated with Sannino's Plumbing & Heating, says he will call his acquisition the Ivy Inn and will overhaul a lot more than the plumbing and heating . . . don't look up now but the sign reading "Price's" above Princeton Stationers, a fixture at 86 Nassau Street no matter what the true name of the establishment might be, is being removed in favor of a brand-new sign, compliments of merchant Bernard Weinstein.

Postmaster Charles F. Murray has announced that the Princeton business section on Nassau Street will be extended four blocks to 272 Nassau on the even side, and from 159 to 273 Nassau on the odd side . . . effective next Monday, this extended business area will receive two mail trips daily, one in the morning and one in the afternoon . . . to fill up the oft-unfilled Trinity Church parking lot and, at the same time, aid in further beautifying Princeton, one interested resident has suggested elimination of all parking along the road leading to Battle Monument, now unmetered and extremely popular . . . reason for the low (and successful) bid on the demolition of the Public Service buildings is reflected in the job being done . . . the contractor is moving at a snail's pace in order to salvage every piece of material removed from the old Witherspoon Street structures.

PASSING PARADE: The will of Jacob J. Mayer, Trenton A&P store manager who was slain and thrown into the Delaware and Raritan Canal here, has been submitted to probate and the administrators have announced that the murdered man left his entire estate to his wife, Dorothy, of Hamilton Township . . . Mr. Mayer was killed the night of April 4, following the theft of some $11,000 from his store, but no one has been charged to date with participation in the brutal, five-week-old crime . . . last week's box in TOWN TOPICS, reporting establishment of a memorial fund in honor of the late William F. Gale, already has resulted in contributions amounting to more than $100, which will be used for a new grand piano for the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church and scholarship grants for promising musicians . . . in connection with the fund drive, a lecture-demonstration by Clifford J. Gallant, originally scheduled for May 15, will be held at 8:30 p.m. May 22 at Valley Road School . . . as anticipated, the Township Committee has received a strongly worded petition, signed by 85 residents, urging a lower speed (now 45 m.p.h.) on Route 206 from Township Hall north to the municipal line . . . Tuesday's "alert" went off without disturbing incidents or accidents, according to Civil Defense ringleaders in the Princeton area . . . for a stimulating look at various different matters on the minds of widespread Princetonians, turn to Mailbox, page 28.

SCHOOLS APPROVED

Township Margin 2-1. Registered voters of Princeton Township —approximately 25 percent of all eligibles—braved a steady rainfall Tuesday evening to cast a "yes" or "no" in answer to the latest school building question. It was the largest turnout of the past decade for a Township school election and, as a result, voters approved by a 741 to 373 count the most significant educational referendum in a long time.

In essence, the majority of Township residents authorized the sale of bonds amounting to $1,145,000 to support construction of two new elementary schools, one in Johnson Park on the municipality's west side, the other in the Riverside section on the east side. Each school will contain 10 classrooms and a kindergarten at the outset, and each should be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1959.

Last Thursday evening, in an eleventh-hour effort to discuss every possible aspect of the proposed building program, the Township Board of Education held another public hearing on the subject at Valley Road School. More than 80 interested citizens attended the session, some indicating disapproval of the preliminary architectural designs for the structures and still others indicating a wave of votes against the Board-sponsored referendum this Tuesday.

As voting time neared, there were rumors in Township Hall to the effect that a large number of taxpayers would go to the polls, in spite of the bad weather, to oppose the costly measure, which undoubtedly will mean a noticeable tax hike next year to meet construction bills alone. Die-hards favoring a more centralized system of schools, with what they call "much smaller maintenance expenditures," figured they might be strong enough to turn the tide. But the Board, backed actively by several citizens' advisory committees as well as the Township PTA, withstood the threat and scored a conclusive victory.

Anxious not to waste any time in pursuing its program of future expansion, the Board met this Wednesday evening "to give the latest plans serious consideration." Its members promised "to keep on reporting developments to the public" as they are achieved.

Tabulation of Tuesday's vote showed that three of the municipality's districts—Nos. 1 (Valley Road School area), 6 (Clearview section) and 7 (Shopping Center area)—opposed the referendum by small margins. The other six districts endorsed the measure, most of them by sizeable advantages.

The breakdown by districts:

District	"Yes"	"No"
No. 1	37	40
2	120	47
3	54	15
4	112	66

SECURITY RISK?

Bureaucratic Bobble. The staid New York Times and the somewhat more flamboyant United Press, nationwide news-gathering organization, combined forces this week in perpetuating what could well be one of the most ridiculous, laugh-provoking miscues of the bureaucratic year 1958.

The headline in The Times, above a UP dispatch from Washington, read: "A.E.C. Denies Smyth Nuclear Secrets." The Smyth-in-question was Dr. Henry DeW. Smyth, eminent Princeton physicist, author of the Smyth "A-Bomb Report," former A.E.C. Commissioner and chairman of the Review Committee of Project Matterhorn, the super-secret, Princeton-based project concerned with thermonuclear fusion.

It was the gist of the UP report that Dr. Smyth, currently serving as a consultant to the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, had been denied an "access permit" as an adviser to the Edison Electric Institute to "category C-20" information on controlled thermonuclear processes, the data bearing upon the conversion of the H-Bomb to peacetime uses.

What the United Press failed to report was the paradox that while Dr. Smyth as a research scientist possesses the highest possible "security clearance" granted by the Atomic Energy Commission he is not eligible as a consultant to the non-profit Edison Institute to obtain any information bearing upon thermonuclear fusion.

The United Press story apparently orginated with a quick study of the newly published "Hearings Before the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy," which lists all of those denied access by the A.E.C. to "Category C-20" information (thermonuclear fusion).

Listed with Dr. Smyth were the last two general managers of the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission, Marion W. Boyer and General K. D. Nichols, as well as the distinguished scientist, James L. Tuck, who is currently directing the thermonuclear project at the Los Alamos Laboratory, New Mexico.

HOSPITAL UNIT OPENS

New Third Floor Ready. Princeton Hospital has opened its new third floor for patient care, thereby adding 40 beds to the facilities already available at the hospital. This number can be expanded to a full 54 by converting private rooms to semi-private, bringing maximum capacity to 196 beds.

Plagued for several months by delays in the delivery of special electric beds, the unit went into operation last Monday as soon as the beds arrived and ten patients were immediately accommodated. The new electric beds are so designed that patients themselves can raise or lower the beds from hospital height to conventional bed height, and can also adjust foot and head positions.

The new floor has large rooms decorated with cheerful colors. The furniture is modern with laminated plastic tops on chests

THE MAIL ANIMAL: In spring, a young man's fancy turns to light-hearted thoughts, including the need for making a beast of burden out of the Princeton Tiger. Sunday morning found this scene at the entrance to Palmer Square, and even postal officials were amused. The box was a theatrical prop, not the real thing. (Richards Photo)

Friend, Not Foe

If you see a man hurtling through space, it will be neither the beginning of a Martian invasion, a missile pilot suddenly separated from his Sputnik, nor even cause for alarm.

What you'll see (in the skies above the intersection of Province Line Road and the Princeton Pike) will be one or more members of the Princeton Parachute Club making delayed jumps. A delayed jump is a free fall of eight to 15 seconds' duration, before the cord is pulled to open the chute.

The club, an undergraduate organization approved by Princeton University, has a dozen members, including Hugh Fairman and Thomas Dorf of this community, and Robert Kales, a former Princeton resident. Using red or yellow parachutes, members jump two or three times a week, using the Gilbert Lea farmland as their target.

All jumps are from 2,000 to 3,000 feet and in the event of free falls, all openings are above 2,000 feet. The sleeve of the chute, in which it is encased before opening, floats away after the cord is pulled. It is not a chute that opened improperly, and there is no need, the club emphasizes, to call the police—who know all about it already.

and tables, tweed-textured upholstery, decorative mirrors and lamps, and harmonizing draperies.

The new addition was started in January, 1957, as part of a major plan including, besides the new floor, additional patients' rooms on the first and second floors and expanded office space in the administrative wing. Funds for the expansion were raised by a community drive which netted over $500,000.

HOSPITALS AS A CAREER

National Hospital Week. Princeton Hospital will celebrate National Hospital Week from May 11-17, observing the period with a theme, "Careers That Count." According to John W. Kauffman, hospital administrator, over 200 job classifications can be found in large hospitals, and these institutions are numbered among the nation's largest employers.

High schools and junior high schools have been asked to participate in the week's observance by scheduling special programs that highlight the advantages of hospital work as a career for young people. Interested groups and individuals are urged to call at Princeton Hospital to arrange for special tours during the week.

MENDES-FRANCE CANCELS

May Come in November. Because of the "political uncertainties" of the prevailing situation in France, D. Pierre Mendes—France, former prime minister of France, has cancelled the Walter E. Edge Memorial Lecture he was to give next week at the University.

Dr. Robert F. Goheen, University president, said that the French statesman and the University had mutually decided to postpone next week's lectures, hoping that they can be given by Dr. Mendes-France next November.

YMCA-YWCA BUILDING FUND

"Let's Finish The Job." Progress reports on the Y's building fund campaign are being given Wednesday evenings at 8 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church. Campaign headquarters are at 120 John Street.

Joel Nystrom spoke at the meeting this week. He is executive secretary of the International Committee of the YMCA's of the United States and Canada.

The auditors' committee, headed by John C. Yeomon, performs important services at these meetings. Assisting Mr. Yeoman are Robert Clinton, Arthur Gerstl, Donald Schnell, Zolton Freg, and Mrs. John Dilworth, Miss Margaret O'Dell, Mrs. Frank Clerk, Mrs. Mildred Knight, Mrs. Howard Waxwood, Harold Davis, Mrs. C. E. Garvine, Dwight Edwards and Henry Johnson.

The campaign organization, composed of 400 men and women, are engaged in soliciting funds to complete the new Y Center.

PUBLIC LIBRARY PLANS

Book Festival Sponsored. The New York Herald Tribune Children's Spring Book Festival will be celebrated from Monday through Friday at the Princeton Public Library. The festival was begun in 1937 to encourage more reading by children.

The Tribune awards $200 prizes each to the three best books for boys and girls in three age groups The Library's children's department plans an exhibit of these books during the festival week.

A special display will include the complete series of Newbery Medal and the Caldecott Medal books, prizes given annually for the finest cootribution to children's literature and for distinction in a picture book respectiveiy. John Newbery published children's books 200 years ago and Rendolph Caldecott was a picture book artist of the ast century.

The children's department is open from 10 to 5:30 Monday through Saturday, with the exception of an early closing hour at 1 p.m. Thursday. The staff regrets that lack of space prohibits scheduled visits by large groups.

Mr. Plan Ahead, who can't see blue sky on a cloudless day, actually did send his only raincoat to the cleaners during the past seven-day period —one of the wettest in Weather Bureau Records. Better than two inches of rain, more than half May's normal total, fell during the first three days of the week, pelting him with far more drops than he could dodge.

It took some doing to persuade the Weather Man to make a prediction for the upcoming four-day period. Normally unabashed by forecasts that go awry, he was unable to speek when first encountered. The cause, however, proved not to be embarrassment over his recent inaccuracies but a large quantity of water he had somehow swallowed while peering into the clouds.

"More," he gurgled wearily, "rain on Thursday." Before going under for the third time, however, he promised slow clearing and hinted that it might be fair and warmer Friday. He hopes the weather pettern for that day will last more than a mere 24 hours.

News Of The THEATRES

TERRIBLY FUNNY

Lehrer Derisively Delightful. Serving as his own introducer, "to save money," and hailing himself as "the most magnificent baritone since Millard Fillmore," Tom Lehrer (rhymes with terror) haunted McCarter Theatre for two hours Saturday evening, and he fractured the joint. The one-time Harvard mathematician-turned-entertainer presented his infamous "comedy of terrors," completely winning over those in the packed house of 1077 who were not already Lehrer loyalists.

Mixing old and new concoctions in wonderful balance, the singing tragicomedian, or "Charles Addams with a voice," demonstrated forcefully why his only album of records—probably the only 10 inch LP currently selling in any volume—has sold well over a quarter-million copies. This young and improper Bostonian has a sense of humor that is warped so thoroughly that the shape his wit is in seems perfect. He has a sardonic touch that leaves no sacred stone unturned.

Lehrer has come up with a one-man show that puts Victor Borge to shame and defies description. He not only sings his maniacal monstrosities in a pleasing, expressive and always clear voice, but he plays the piano surprisingly well and, above all, he has developed a poised patter to fill the gaps between numbers that is as genuinely amusing as his aboriginal songs. Much of his notoriety, he explained modestly, is due to the fact that he recently finished a translation of "The Wizard of Oz" into Latin and is hard at work on a musical comedy based on the life of Adolph Hitler.

Princetonians who did not realize Lehrer's artistic prowess or were unable to squeeze into McCarter's SRO confines—and there were many in each category—missed a memorable performance. Undergraduate Dick Lukins produced a highly successful venture, boding well for his post-college days, if he should choose the theatrical field. And the Princeton Listening Post certainly earned special plaudits for installing audio equipment that enabled spectators in the deepest balcony seats to understand Lehrer's rapid-fire phrases.

BEHIND THE MAKEUP: This is what Georgine Hall looks like after shedding the makeup she wears so well in Theatre Intime's current production of "The Glass Menagerie." In the Tennessee Williams play, she is starred as a middle-aged mother of two.

THEATRE INTIME

Well-Done Williams. Criticized by University officialdom for presenting Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie"—since only two males are required to complete the cast—Theatre Intime nonetheless has gone ahead and produced the prize-winning play of 1945 vintage, and, in the face of said criticism, has graced Murray Theatre's stage with a memorable offering. The amateurs have done Williams well, in a professional manner that belies their amateur status.

For Princeton theatergoers who missed last weekend's opening performances, attended in quantity by Houseparty guests and their escorts, "Menagerie" will continue through Saturday, with an 8:30 curtain each evening. Tickets are still available at the University Store—all modestly priced—and also will be on sale at the Murray box office prior to every show.

It must be noted at once that, while the students' contributions to the current Intime producion are praiseworthy, Georgine Hall's portrayal of Amanda has afforded the play the real strength necessary for success. Amusing and pathetic, full of human understanding, her interpretation of the somewhat slovenly Southern mother, poor in reality but rich in memories, is letter-perfect. The veteran Princeton actress has a field day in her latest role, and so good is her accent that the others don't even bother to try and run with her.

FOR YOUNG LION, A LIONESS: May Britt portrays the loose-loving wife of Marlon Brando's Nazi captain in "The Young Lions," much-heralded war picture which makes its bow at the Playhouse this Sunday.

Fred Wardenburg, Intime president, should not be overlooked, simply because he happens to be competing with one of the best. He gives a quiet, easy performance as Amanda's thwarted son, demonstrating a great deal of poise and doing a fine job as the story's narrator, in "Our Town" fashion. Wardenburg would appear to have a lot of theatrical ability, perhaps enough to perpetuate the Princeton tradition established 25 years ago by Messrs. Stewart and Ferrer.

To lend balance to Williams' faintly sardonic dialogue, Kathy Kelly has developed the character of Amanda's shy, crippled daughter with the sensitivity it deserves. She is quite believable in a difficult part. Less convincing, as the Gentleman Caller brought into the household by son for daughter, is Dick Johnson, who cannot possibly disguise his collegiate mannerisms and create the impression of a St. Louis warehouse worker.

Perhaps, in issuing its criticism of Intime's "Menagerie" undertaking, the University forgot that the audience never sees all. For example, Steven Lipsitz has directed the play skillfully, and undoubtedly has gained much theatrical knowledge by virtue of this opportunity in his undergraduate days. Peter Da Luca's set design is grade-A, capturing the mood of an alley apartment very nicely, and Robert Baylis has earned plaudits for his stage managership.

MUSIC CIRCUS

Midweek Prices Lowered. St. John Terrell's Music Circus at Lambertville has announced a new low price of 90 cents for its performances on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights. This innovation will enable local audiences to see Broadway shows at probably the lowest price anywhere. Mr. Terrell believes it is up to the tent theatres to make hit musicals available to the public at nominal prices.

The season gets underway May 31 with Frank Loesser's "The Most Happy Fella" which will run through June 22. Based on Sidney Howard's Pulitzer Prize play, "They Knew What They Wanted," the story revoles around an Italian vineyard owner in California's Napa Valley and his mail order bride. George Lipton, a "tent" veteran, will direct this season's productions.

"Song of Norway" follows "The Most Happy Fella" for two weeks, with "Fledermaus" beginning on July 8. Further information can be obtained by writing the Music Circus or calling EX 7-1504. Theatre party bookings are available for all shows.

BUCKS PLAYHOUSE

"Planet" Current Offering. The Bucks County Playhouse has begun its season with "Visit to a Small Planet," which will continue through May 17. The fantasy-comedy stars Reginald Gardiner and features Paul Lynde.

Ilka Chase arrives at the Playhouse May 19 for two weeks. Her vehicle is "The Desk Set," hit Broadway comedy.

Also appearing in "Planet" is Sara Seegar who is celebrating her 12th year at the Playhouse. Miss Seegar played in "The Heiress" when Grace Kelly made her stage debut. Her husband, son and daughter are all associated with Playhouse activity.

Children's Series Ends. "Land of the Playful Dragon" will be presented at 3:30 this Thursday at McCarter Theatre. It is the last in the series of four children's programs sponsored by

Low Budget, High Hope

Richard L. Hilliard's local motion picture company, General Films Inc., has produced a full-length feature movie, "The Lonely Crime," which will be given its world premiere May 22, 23 and 24 at the Garden Theatre. If successful in this "test" run—and hopes are high for the low-budget effort—immediate national distribution is planned.

Depicting the story of a sex criminal who at times is normal and sympathetic and on other occasions is torn by hatred and maniacal rage, Hilliard's production is the devoted effort of a "practical idealist" to show that the sex criminal is not necessarily an ugly idiot, but an understandable human being. The producer has gone to great lengths to explain his subject, not excuse him.

Karl Light, popular Princeton performer who has appeared in the Broadway hit, "Inherit the Wind," and in many television shows, will be seen in the lead role of the General Films product, filmed and prepared almost entirely in Princeton. Richard Nicholls, Peggy Allison, Mary Gonzales and Munro Wade, all of Princeton, are featured prominently in the cast, while the picture's musical score was composed by Donald Martino, an instructor at Princeton University, and the soundtrack was recorded by H. H. Hagens recording studio of Princeton.

IT'S NEW To Us

CABBAGE AND PETUNIAS

Let's Call A Spade A Spade. A hoe in the hand comes in handy this time of year and if last weekend's cool raininess kept you out of the garden, you're going to have a lot to catch up on this weekend.

Gene Seal, the floral establishment at 200 Nassau, is ready with seedlings whenever you're ready with a well-dug plot. Exploring the plant market, we found cabbages, if not kings, and tomatoes by the flat-full. Separate potted tomatoes will be along shortly. There is cauliflower to plant, and celery and almost every perennial you can name.

Plant some Shasta daisies, or candytuft just ready to show its white bloom, forget-me-nots that will soon make a blue wall-to-wall carpet in your garden, pinks that will brighten every spring for years to come, the Pacific hybrid delphinum or succulents for an evergreen garden.

Petunias seem to be favorites with people who like annuals. At Gene Seal you can by Popcorn, Ballerina, White Magic, Tango, Blue Lustre and Blue Mantle. The white and purple alyssum is ready to set out, and so is salvia and small marigold plants who belong to the dwarf family.

If you have major landscape problems, Gene Seal's trained landscape gardener will help you work out a plan. You buy your shrubs and plants through the floral shop and set them out yourself according to the design you work out with your expert.

It's For You. While you were outside planting those petunias, you probably heard the phone ring. And before you could lay down your trowel, take off your garden gloves and run inside, the phone had stopped ringing and you were left with that tantalizing unanswered "hello" all day.

If this sort of thing is driving you indoors and making you neglect your petunias, you may call on the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company for relief. They will not plant the petunias, but they will install for you an outdoor telephone encased in a small weatherproof box.

The box is fastened to the back of your house and it has an outdoor bell that rings when the inside phone rings. You can cut off the bell when you don't need it. If you prefer, you can have a light on your patio that flashes when the phone inside rings. Or, you may like a button and buzzer set-up so that anyone inside can summon anyone outside to answer the phone.

Like Mother, Like Daughter. Allen's Children's Shop likes to see the chip look like the old block. Well, of course, no mother thinks of herself as an old block, but that's the idea.

Buy a bright yellow sleeveless shirtdress, sashed with a bandanna, and put an identical one on your daughter. A second style is navy blue, gathered skirt, wide white-embroidered bertha collar.

Negative Achievement

Beseler's Slide-O-Film is about the hottest thing in photography since Daguerre and you may buy it at Mail Camera in the Princeton Shopping Center. Only 60 or so dealers have it in the whole country, so you can see that you are lucky.

With Slide-O-Film you can make a black and white negative from a colored slide, or a slide from a black and white negative, all without chemicals or darkroom.

You expose your original and a Slide-O-Film strip in ultra-violet light. Then you apply heat to the new duplicate, either by dropping it into boiling water or pressing with a hot iron. Slide-O-Film has a Mylar base (like recording tape) and it will not tear, fade or age. It contains no silver, so there is no grain, and this means that you can enlarge almost to infinity with your new negative.

Slide-O-Film comes in 35mm and 2¼ by 2¼ sizes for $2.95, 36 and 24 exposures.

White Stag turns out some clothes for little fawns. We liked best a pair of shorts not ten inches long for the smallest dear in your family. These sports clothes come in short shorts or Jamaicas in denims, stripes and solids, with sleeveless jersey shirts, either pin-striped with boat neck, or done with a small collar.

Wait 'till you see the nylon boxer swim trunk for boys, the one that folds right up into its own pocket. It's called "Bean Bag." Most boys clothes at Allen's are by MacGregor: cabana sets up to size 20, with sports shirts that can be worn with slacks or with the swim trunks that match.

MILBANK CONCERT

Bryn Mawr To Sing Here. Mozart's "Vesperae Solemnes de Confessore" will be sung by the Princeton University Choir and the Bryn Mawr College Chorus Sunday at 3:30 in the University chapel. These concerts have been given here for 28 years in memory of Elizabeth Milbank Anderson of New York.

Carl Weinrich will conduct the two groups. Princeton soloists are William McGrath, tenor, and Richard Kuelling, bass-baritone, with the soprano role taken by Miss Marjorie McClung and the contralto by Miss Doris Okerson.

The music department in Clio Hall has tickets available for the concert which will be honored until 3:20 on Sunday. Non-ticket holders may obtain seats after that time.

FRIENDS OF MUSIC

Students to Give Concert. A concert of contemporary music written by graduate students in Princeton University's music department will be presented Friday at 8:15 in the auditorium of Clio Hall. The first of two concerts planned this spring to present music by students of Roger Sessions, the program will include compositions by four composers.

Miss Lalan Farrott will play a Fantasy for Piano by Dovid Sprung and Godfrey Winham's Concert Piece for Piano. Mr. Sprung, a 1957 graduate of Queens College, is the winner of a number of awards and prizes. Mr. Winham received his undergraduate degree from Princeton in 1956 and has studied with William Alwyn and Matyas Seiber.

Bruce McKinney '60, will perform a Sonata for Trumpet and Piano by John Eaton '57. Mr. Eaton has recorded for Columbia Records and is presently working on his second opera, which is based on "Trachinae" of Sophocles.

Milton Gill's Six Motets for Men's Voices will close the program. A 1954 graduate of Princeton, Mr. Gill has studied organ with Carl Weinrich and is the present conductor of the Princeton Freshman Glee Club. He will lead members of the varsity and freshman glee clubs in his composition.

Piano Recital Set. A group of piano students will give a recital Sunday at the studio of John Ellis, their teacher. The program will include the Gretchaninov cycle "A Child's Day" and the Faure "Dolly" Suite for piano duet.

The performers include Mary Chang, Robert Console, Carol Deering, Claudia Deering, Mollie Dorf, Kathleen Gray, Mary Hobler, Wilson Kehoe, Peter Lief and Susan Pollard. Also participating in the program are James Scruff, Nancy Smoyer, Denys Oberman, Ann Spanel, Joseph Weiner and Joan Wilhelm.

Students to Give Recital. Mrs. Naomi Chandler will present eight of her piano students in the second of a series of recitals at her home, 107 Westcott Road on Sunday at 3.

Those appearing on the program are: Miss Lauren Lauck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lauck; John Rajchman, son of Dr. and Mrs. Jan Rajchman; Miss Linda Blattenberger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. William Blattenberger; Miss Bonnie Schrader, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. B. Schrader. Also participating are: Miss Nancy Sussman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Oscar Sussman; Anthony Lauck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald M. Lauck Jr.; Miss Jane Zacharias, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Zacharias and Thomas Tucker, son of Professor and Mrs. A. W. Tucker.

Mac has a complex system of nomenclature involving two size groups and three sizes in plaid. "Wee" and "Prep" are the sizes, "Jack," "Beanstalk," and "Giant," are the sizes in plaid. You can buy "Wee Giant," for instance, or "Wee Beanstalk." It's complicated, but it comes out even.

Maternity clothes in the back of the store follow through spring and summer with narrow chino skirts that can be used after the baby comes, and simple shorts that you'll probably put away to save for the next sibling. The helanac stretch feature appears in almost all garments, although one chino skirt has a button adjustment.

Maternity undergarments are new with Allen's. There are slips, panties, baby-doll pajamas and short nightgowns, most of them in pastel tricot or dacron and cotton combinations. The slips an panties are all white, however.

The baby, when he arrives, can recline in a Nip n' Nap, which is a plastic (rosebuds) covered reclining chair in which the infant lies to take a nip—we're quoting the tag—from his bottle. After this somewhat adult activity, he may then stretch out and lie flat in the same reclining "chair" to have his after-nip nap. Mother has to recline the chair for him, but mothers are notoriously accomodating.

How's the Water? If you live with Princeton water but without water softener, the answer is hard, sister, hard. The Culligan Water Conditioning people, who have a vested interest in this sort of thing, suggest that if you are dubious about the hardness of your water, you make a simple test.

See if there's a ring around the bathtub. If there is, the water is hard. If there isn't, it probably means that your seven-year-old son hasn't taken his bath yet.

Streaks on glasses, spotted silverware and greyness in the family wash are also signs of hard water. If you would like to see what a water softening system can do, Culligan offers you a free trial period with the new Culligan Automatic Softener, whose pinpoint controls give you an uninterrupted flow of soft water no matter how big your house or family. Call the Culligan Company at WA 1-8800 and ask about the offer.

Pick-Ups for Spring. Inexpensive mix and match clothes at Bailey's in the Princeton Shopping Center will start you off for summer, or round out your wardrobe for spring. No-iron dacron and cotton dress has a great big red plaid that has been sewn into a softly pleated skirt, sleeveless shirt top and fabric belt. The whole is $13.94.

Buy a sleeveless shirt made of a red bandanna and wear it with shorts or a plain straight skirt. A bigger red bandanna makes a halter dress with a full skirt.

If you're folksy, you'll like a Tyrolean jumper in blue and rust print traced with rick-rack. It's all in one piece with a white shortsleeved blouse that has a round collarless neck and bindings of white rick-rack.

A cherry night-gown is made of seersucker: white with blue dots and a binding of blue with white dots. It hangs straight to a wide kneeheight ruffle and right there is a big blue bow.

Another gown in cotton batiste has a middy overbloused top and bloomers. There is a prim peignoir with rounded collar and puff sleeves, and a conventional nightgown if you'd rather not have the baby-doll effect. The print is a small scratch of blue on white. Bermuda shorts pajamas will keep you cool and covered. They are striped, in white, blue or pink.

A new bra at Bailey's is nothing but some strategic lace and a complex of straps. It has a low back. "No matter how low your dress is," our informant told us, "this bra is lower." We did not run any tests.

DANCE RECITALS

Aparri Students to Perform. The Aparri School of Dance will sponsor twa dance recitals Saturday morning at 10 and 11:15. They are the third and fourth in a series given by the school's atudents.

The recitals will be presented for parents and friends of the students. Those interested in attending should call Miss Mila Gibbons, the school's directress, at WA 4-1822, or Mrs. John Boles, WA 1-8684.

THE PLAYHOUSE

Teacher's Pet (May 8-10) proves happily that Clark ("Run Silent, Run Deep") Gable is capable of doing just as well by comedy as he is by action-filled drama. In this light story of relative little plot value, he plays a hard-driving, self taught city editor who, with actuol newspapermen cast as his staff, succeeds in making the newspaper sequences as believable as they are amusing. Doris Day portrays the teacher of a night class in journalism and, while it's difficult for her to convince anyone she's a journalism teacher, she manages to be delightful in a running battle with Gable, who dislikes journalism schools—for a while, at least. Of note, Miss Day goes through another motion picture without singing a tune, thereby underscoring the versatily that made her a leading box office attraction. Gig Young is excellent in the major supporting role, a serio-comic assignment, and Mamie Van Doren is conspicuously featured. All things considered, "Teacher's Pet"—produced and directed by the clever Perlberg-Seaton combination and written by Fay and Michael Kanin—is a pleasant surprise, perhaps one of the best comedies that will come this way in '58. It's in Vista-Vision, too!

The Young Lions (May 11-17) are Marlon Brando, Montgomery Clift and Dean Martin, and they are asked to derive motion picture cohesion and effectiveness out of Irwin Shaw's long and involved post-World War II best seller. They are not always successful in their endeavor, despite the fact that able director Edward Dmytryk gives them almost three hours to handle the job, and, as a result, many moviegoers are likely to be let down after the film's big publicity build-up. For one thing, there is an overdose of unremitting war, in all its terror, all its degradation and all its wanton suffering. For another, Brando, as the young German officer, is a Hollywood-type Nazi who realizes the enormity of the Hitlerian crime, as opposed to the Shaw-conceived Nazi who was hard and ruthless and killed in bitterness and hate when the Fuehrer's cause failed. Brando again emphasizes his versatility by scoring in the top role, while Clift is convincing as a naive, conscientious Jewish American soldier. But the real surprise is Martin as a fast-talking Broadway singer; he is skillful and sympathetic and plays his part with commendable restraint. "The Young Lions" succeeds largely due to these three male performances, supported well by a number of other males and females, and the oft-distracting lack of cohesion is foregiveable because the unfolding of three different storles about three different protagonists necessitates a lot of jumping around. At least, there is always a feeling of muted suspense, and never is there any flagging of pace.

THE GARDEN

Mark of the Hawk (May 8-10), filmed on location in Africa and in England, deals in straightforward fashion with the deadly serious problem of racial difficulties between blacks and whites in South Africa. Naturally, much of the movie is devoted to passages of expository and argumentative dialogue necessary to emphasize the picture's thematic messages, and often these sequences seem a bit drawn-out, However, there is also a considerable amount of action, including attacks by native terrorists, without which the film would necessarily bog down in preachment and argument. Sidney Poitier, a sensitive and understanding performer, is grade-A as the embattled Negro legislator who is the story's protagonist. Eartha Kitt, the attractive and accomplished songstress-actress, handles the role of Poitier's wife with conviction, though she is obliged to render an utterly incongruous and unnecessary song, "This Man Is Mine," after her husband's arrest. John McIntire nnd Juano Hernandez deserve mention for their appealing performances in support.

Demaniac (May 12-17), in French with English titles, comes almost directly to Princeton from the ship transporting it from France—without benefit of any advance notices or even synopsis. One of the few things known about the picture is the fact that it is based on a novel by de Boileau-Nnrcejac, who also contributed the highly memorable "Diabolique." This bit of information, plus the distributors' request that "patrons see it from the beginning," indicates n dramatic chiller in the "Diabolique" tradition.

Moscow Ballet

The celebrated Russian hallet troupe, the Moiseyev Dance Company, will not appear here next month, contrary to previous reports. McCarter's stage is too small, according to its managing directors, and so the location has been changed to Philadelphia's Convention Hall for the convenience of New Jersey ballet patrons.

The New York program will be repeated June 11 and 12, evenings only, at "popular" prices made possible by the use of Convention Hall. Orchestra and mezzenine prices are $6.90, $5.75 and $4.60, with the balcony scaled at $5.75, $4.60, $3.45 and $2.30. Tickets may be obtained by mail from Centrnl City Ticket Office, 1422 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia. Orders must be accompanied by a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Obituaries

Arnold G. Dohm, 77, of Union City, died at his home on May 2.

Born and raised in Princeton, he was the son of Adam G. Dohm and Mary Cleary. He was a former member of Mercer Engine Co. No. 3 and of Company L, Princetons' first National Guard unit. He is survived by his wife, Dorothy; a son, two granddaughters; an aunt, Miss Elizabeth Cleary, an uncle, Augustus Dohm, both of Princeton. Burial was in Union City.

William E. Briggs, 60, of 17 Greenview Avenue, died May 5 at Princeton Hospital after a lengthy illness. Born in South Brunswick Township, he had been a Princeton resident for more than 40 years.

A retired mason, Mr. Briggs was a member of Princeton Engine Co. No. 1. He also belonged to Princeton Lodge 138 F. & A.M.; The Princeton Shrine Club, Crescent Temple, Scottish Rite and Washington Camp 106, POS of A.

Husband of the late Charlotte S. Briggs, he is survived by a son, three grandchildren, four brothers, including Nicholas K. of Kingston and Donald of Princeton; six sisters, including Mrs. William Snizaan and Mrs. Jessie Robeson of Princeton and Mrs. Harry Speinheimer, Mrs. Mildred Mehl and Mrs. Horace Sassman, all of Kingston.

The service will be held at the Kimble Funeral Home Thursday at 2 with the Rev. Dr. John V. Butler, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, officiating. Burial will be in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Lilla M. Hubbard, 86, of 19 Vandeventer Avenue, died May 5 after a lengthy illness. She was the widow of Oliver H. Hubbard.

A member of the Official Board of the Methodist Church, she was particularly interested in the Home for the Aged which it supports at Ocean Grove. Mrs. Hubbard was a past officer of the Needlework Guild, a member of the Women's College Club and of the Order of the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Hubbard is survived by a daughter, Miss Dorothy Hubbard; a son, Alvin; a sister, Mrs. Edward V. Baldwin; and a brother, Irving W. Mershon, all of Princeton. The service will be held this Thursday at 2 p.m. at the Mather Funeral Home, with the Rev. Charles W. Marker of the Methodist Church officiating.

Herman A. Kreitzer, 39, of 39 Humbert Street, died May 1 at Mercer Hospital, Trenton, after a short illness.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mary Munay Kreitzer; a stepdaughter, Miss Cheryle Petrone; a step-son, Frederick Petrone Jr.; three brothers and several nieces and nephews.

The Service was held at the Mather Funeral Home. The Rev. David Crawford of the Second Presbyterian Church officiated and interment took place in Princeton Cemetery.

Mrs. Helen S. Lehrritter, 61, died April 30 in Dayton, Ohio. She was the wife of George C. Lehrritter, a former resident of Princeton.

Born in Monmouth Junction, she was the daughter of the late Augustus and Jessie Rowland Stout. She was secretary for Associated Clubs, Inc., at 4 Mercer Street, before moving to Dayton two years ago.

Survivors include a daughter, four grandchildren; a sister, Mrs. John P. Gorman; and brother, Richard M. Stout of Princeton. The funeral was held in Cranbury, with Rev. George Mair, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, officiating. Interment was in Dayton, N J.

Mrs. Lyda Kelly Muir of New York died at her home in that city on Sunday of a heart attack. Her survivors include a son, Malcolm Muir, Jr., of Newlin Road.

Born and raised in Kentucky, Mrs. Muir in 1912 was presdent of the Cabbage Patch, a charitable organization in that city. It was the subject of the Alice Hegan Rice story, Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch."

In New York, she had been active in philanthropic and welfare work, particularly on behalf of the Cancer Committee. She was the first wife of Malcolm Muir, president of Newsweek. They were divorced in 1942.

Herbert F. Rorer, 64, of Hopewell, died May 5 at Temple University Hospital, Philadelphia. He was proprietor of the hardware store bearing his name at 31 West Broad Street, Hopewell.

A native of Philadelphia, Mr. Rorer had lived in Hopewell for 45 years and had operated a hardware store for 32 years. A World War 1 veteran and member of Hopewell Valley Post 39, American Legion, he also was a member of the Hopewell Volunteer Fire Company; Hopewell Valley Chamber of Commerce; Princeton Shrine Club, Hopewell Chapter 112, OES and PASHA. He was an elder of the First Presbyterian Church in Hopewell.

Mr. Rorer is survived by his wife, Clara; a daughter, Mrs. Marion Matthews of Hopewell; his father, Francis C.W. Rorer and two sisters, Mrs. Anna Smith and Mrs. Sarah Hoffman, all of Princeton.

The Funeral will be held this Thursday at 2 at the First Presbyterian Church in Hopewell. Burial will be in Highland Cemetery. In place of flowers, donations may be made to The Herbert F. Rorer Leukemia Research Fund, in care of the First Presbyterian Church.

Santa Needs Gift

Christmas may be seven months away, but Santa Claus needs a gift right now. And it's a most unusual present Santa needs. The jolly, old fellow is in the market for some 80 feet of cement sidewalk in the heart of downtown Princeton.

Mr. Claus, better known to his many friends as Henry A. Schultz, the blind Santa who makes youngsters happy every December, moved recently from a room at 134 Nassau Street to rented quarters at 9 Lincoln Court, just east of Tulane Street. There is no sidewalk in front of his new home, so Mr. Schultz has trouble finding the porch and often finds himself stumbling on the rough, daogerous roadway.

Borough engineers have estimated it would cost about $200 to install 80 feet of sidewalk from Tulane to Santa's new home. But the municipality isn't in a position to do the job because it doesn't own the property. As a matter of fact, Lincoln Court may be a true "no man's land," since records fail to tell who owns it.

LOOKING FOR A FAIR DAY is the favorite spring pastime at Princeton Country Day School. The annual fair will be held Saturday, May 17, on the school grounds and its theme will be nautical, so committee members are getting all the popular games in shipshape. There will be a "Galley" where the fair will open with luncheon at noon, and a fleet of land-based sport cars available for sailors on shore leave. Surveying possibilities are Robert Console, first former, son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Console, New Carson Road, and Jobe Stevens, sixth former, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Stevens, Province Line Road.

PARENTS' DAY SATURDAY

University Plans Program. Parents of members of the freshman class at Princeton University will be in town Saturday for the 10th annual Freshman Parents Day. The day-long program will start at 9 a.m. with a review of the three ROTC units and conclude with an afternoon garden party at Prospect given by President and Mrs. Robert F. Goheen.

More than 500 parents and relatives are expected from all sections of the country. After the annual review of the Army, Navy and Air Force Reserve Officers Training Units, the visitors will meet in Alexander Hall to be welcomed by President Goheen and hear a panel discussion on undergraduate education.

Participating in the panel discussion at the 10:30 a.m. meeting will be Dr. Richard D. Challener, Secretary of the Board of Advisers and Assistant Dean of the College; Howard Menand Jr., assistant Dean of the School of Engineering; Norman C. Moore, Assistant Dean of Students; and Dr. Jack A. Vernon, Associate Professor of Psychology and a member of the Board of Advisers. A question period will follow the discussion.

The parents will have lunch with their sons in the University Dining Halls and then go to McCarter Theatre for a program including the documentary film "Princeton" and singing by the Freshman Glee Club. The remainder of the afternoon, until the Goheen's garden party from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m., will be free for the parents, who may tour the campus or attend some of the many sports events.

Hamilton Cottier, Assistant Dean of the College, is chairman of the committee for Parents' Day. Other members of the committee are Dr. Challener, Dean Menand, Dean Moore, Dr. Vernon, R. Kenneth Fairman, Director of Athletics, Edmund S. Long, Director of the Department of Public Information, and Mrs. Isabelle C. Stuart, secretary.

ROTC REVIEW SATURDAY

Joint Forces to March. The Army, Navy and Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps will combine for the annual Spring Review at 9 a.m. Saturday on Goldie Field on the Princeton University campus. Dean J. Douglas Brown will review the parade.

Featured at the review will be the presentation for the Color Girls of the three forces, exhibitions by the Navy Drill Team and an Army Howitzer Team and a planned fly-by of jets. The Fort Monmouth Army Band will provide the music.

Other events to celebrate the day will include a cocktail party in the afternoon and the Joint Military Ball in the evening. The cocktail party is scheduled from 4 to 6 p.m. at 5 Ivy Lane, Army headquarters, while the Ball will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Present Day Club.

MEMBERSHIP SOUGHT

Town Club Expanding. Hoping very definitely to interest newcomers in joining its popular organization, the Town Club of Princeton will sponsor a public address at 8:30 p.m. next Wednesday in Stuart Hall on the campus of the Princeton Theological Seminary. Non-members as well as members are invited to hear Bruce H. French, a past president of the Princeton Historical Society, speak on the history of early Princeton.

Explaining the public invitation, Robert Flory, the Town Club's general chairman, said next week's program is typical of varied activities offered by the organization, so it was considered a good idea to give everybody this opportunity to get acquainted with the club. He went on to note that his group also offers dances (formal and informal), picnics, clambakes, beach parties, hikes, camping, theatre parties, opera trips, sailing weekends and skiing weekends.

A social and educational organization which derives its membership from young adults in the Princeton area, the Town Club serves as a meeting ground for people with varied interests. As indicated above, its activities range from events attracting 50 to 100 persons to small-scale programs appealing to turnouts of a half-dozen or less.

Mr. Flory stressed that the club has gained in importance in recent years, since the various new businesses in the Princeton area have brought with them a large group of young adults. As a result of the club's endeavors, new residents of the area have been able to meet people in thir age bracket with similar interests.

Educational activities which appeal to a more specialized group are planned often, the general chairman stated. For instance, those interested in photography meet at the home of one of the club's members for a demonstration of the use of color film in artificial light.

The Town Club has no permanent meeting place, but a monthly newsletter is sent to all members and serves as a cohesive agent. The newsletter contains articles, written by different members, that cover recent activities, proposed programs and events and deal with items of general interest to the membership.

Mr. Flory urged prospective Town Club members to contact him at RCA or in the evenings at WA 1-8613, or to notify Walter Morgan, membership chairman. John Ehmann is program chairman, Christo Bauda is secretary and Ann Pekarik is treasurer.

Lions Auxiliary To Meet. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Princeton Lions Club will hold its May dinner meeting Monday at Lohiere's Restaurant.

Officers for 1958-9 will be nominated and elected. The dinner begins at 6:30.

Jewish Center Lunch Planned. The Women's Division of the Princeton Jewish Center has scheduled a luncheon and fashion show for Wednesday, instead of its previously planned antiques show and sale. The lunch will be held at the Jewish Center, 435 Nassau Street, from 12:30 to 3 with a donation of $2.75.

Children's and women's fashions by Helen Griffith of Trenton will be featured. Proceeds will help finance kitchen equipment for the Center. Those interested in attending should call Mrs. Mortimer Feldman at WA 4-2843 or Mrs. Leonard Hymerling at WA 4-2457.

COUNCIL AGENDA

Urban Renewal Review. The mayor and council of Princeton Borough will conduct their regular May meeting in Borough Hall at 8 p.m. next Tuesday. A review of "where we stand on Urban Renewal" will highlight the session, with final passage of the ordinance to ban parking on the north side of Prospect Avenue also among the agenda's prominent items.

The municipality's governing body will receive a report and hold a discussion on the possible Borough acquisition of the former Bell Telephone Building at Nassau and Charlton Streets as a new library site. And Paul Van Wagen, president of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, will appear to explain how highway planning in the Princeton area may be affected by water policy.

Mayor Raymond F. Male will make appointments to various committees, including traffic and parking. Citizens are invited to attend the public meeting, to ask questions or to comment on any matters of interest.

Miss Fine's Students Elect. Abigail Pollak, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor S. Pollak, River Road, Yardley, Pa., will head the student government at Miss

THIS WON'T HURT! Raymond F. Male, Mayor of the Borough of Princeton, submits to the needle of Johanna Hawk, chief medical technologist of Princeton Hospital, as he enrolls as a Red Cross blood donor. Charles A. Hurford, Mayor of Princeton Township, a blood donor since 1949, and Mrs. Alan Tredennick, chairman of the Princeton Blood Donor Service, survey the proceedings with approval. The Red Cross, the Princeton First Aid Rescue Squad and the Junior Chamber of Commerce will recruit new members for the blood donor service during the four Saturdays remaining in May.

Fine's School next year. Besides the elections, May Day celebration at Miss Fine's also included the crowning of the new queen, Berit Jansen, American Field Service Student. (For a picture of the cast of the May Day play, see page 17.)

Secretary of the student council for 1958-1959 will be Eileen Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Baker Jr., 207 Edgerstoune Road. Marion Dean, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Guy K. Iwan Jr., 503 Princeton Road, Plainsboro, will head the social service committee, assisted by Catherine Otis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George G. Otis, 838 Princeton-Kingston Road, treasurer, and Fiona Morgan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Morgan, 84 Elm Road, secretary.

OUT FOR BLOOD

Drive for Donors Saturday. The Princeton Blood Donor Service will open its drive to recruit new members this Saturday, with additional canvasses set for the following three Saturdays. Assisting Princeton Hospital and Princeton Red Cross in the drive will be the Junior Chamber of Commerce and the First Aid and Rescue Squad.

This Saturday, the Jaycees will do the doorbell ringing in the Riverside area, including Longview Drive, Sycamore Road, Balsam Lane, Dogwood Lane, Lake Drive, Knoll Drive and Riverside Drive. Working with an ambulance driven by a volunteer from the Rescue Squad, the Red Cross will take the donor's medical history and a hospital medical technologist will type his blood on the spot.

Borough Mayor Raymond F. Male was recently enrolled as a blood donor at Princeton Hospital. Miss Johnna Hawk, chief medical technologist at the Hospital did the blood typing while Township Mayor Charles A. Hurford, a blood donor since 1949, and Mrs. Alan Tredennick, chairman of the Princeton Blood Donor Service watched.

The Blood Donor service reports that it successfully answered the call of Princeton Hospital for a rare blood type for an accident victim last week. Within an hour of the first call, the Service had three donors at the Hospital, and another five donors requested by the Hospital met the complete needs of the patient.

Last week's story on the Blood Donor Service resulted in numerous phone calls to Red Cross Headquarters and a number of new recruits for the service, the Red Cross reports. In several instances, the individuals had recently moved to the area and had had experiences with having to purchase blood in other cities.

The continuing growth of the community has caused the need for additional donors at the Hospital. Since 1949, Princeton residents have contributed their blood through the Donor Service and have kept blood free at Princeton Hospital.

Birth List. Seventeen children, including nine boys, were born to area residents at Princeton Hospital last week.

Parents of sons are: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Larson, Erricksen Avenue, Griggstown; Mr. and Mrs. William Voelkel, 74 Spruce Street; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Rubel, 108 Einstein Drive; Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig Vukmanovich, Pennington; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGill, 227-A Marshall Street; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth O'Driscoll, 402-A Butler Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bianco, 190 Bayard Lane; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Weible, 6 Humbert Lane; and Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett Bailey, Burnt Hill Road, Skillman.

Parents of daughters are: Mr. and Mrs. James C. Smith, 276 North Harrison Street; Mr. and Mrs. Shoshichi Kobayashi, 3 Hardin Road; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lynch, 9 Kendall Road, Franklin Park; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Moran, Scott Avenue, Princeton Junction; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Soda, 6 Stanley Avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Regis Boh, 22 Cambridge Road, Franklin Park; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Christiansen, Monmouth Junction; and Mr. and Mrs. John Murphy, 55 Hart Avenue, Hopewell.

Democratic Club to Meet. The next Democratic Club meeting will take place Wednesday, May 14, at 8:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend at the Chestnut Street Firehouse.

Frank J. Black will speak at the meeting. It has been announced by Edward J. Sweeney, the club's president. Mr. Black is director of the Mercer County Industrial Commission and will discuss the industrial future of the county.

TOPICAL TOM SAYS: "I for one am going to be prepared when the Institute for Advanced Study orders the demolition of the Maxwell House portico July 1, if it so orders, 'cause it's liable to make more noise than the fireworks in Palmer Stadium on the Fourth. Of course, I'm not blaming the Institute for the rubble-rousing, when it comes, since I know how hard the Institute has tried to dispose of the beautiful pillars unharmed. The portico simply doesn't fit into the Institute's housing expansion plans, it's got to go—and its option will be up July 1. The Princeton chapter of the American Institute of Architects is still interested in preserving the structure as a Battle Park memorial and the Philadelphia Planning Commission is still anxious to install it near its original site as part of the renovation of the mall in Independence Square, but money seems to be the stumbling block in both cases. So I'm getting set for the big "crash." (Photo by Hank Chachowski, Cartoon by Princeton Art Services)

Report from THE MAYOR

Prompt Action. It was not pleasant news, but Princeton's police, borough attorney and magistrate had a busy week handling some major episodes. It was unfortunate that prompt, effective police action was somewhat clouded by a Trenton newspaper story indicating that facts were being withheld.

Certainly, Princeton knows that the Mayor insists that the public be kept informed. Our local papers had full information, and we continue to have excellent cooperation, in getting the facts of local government to the people of the community.

Toward the Deadline. Mayor and Council and key staff met informally last Thursday evening to prepare the agenda for the May 13 public meeting. Also present were representatives of the Housing Authority and the Federal Urban Renewal agency to continue active cooperation on planning for the final project report.

The Witherspoon-John Street Citizens Committee has been invited to continue their survey of housing needs in cooperation with the Borough Engineer and the Housing Authority's planner. Mayor and Council indicated strong feeling for maintaining the integrity of Green Street as a residential area.

Philadelphia and Trenton. Borough Clerk Bob Mooney accompanied the Mayor to Philadelphia last Monday to take part in a discussion of local government problems at a regional meeting of the American Society of Public Administration. On Wednesday we were together again in the Municipal Finance Officers Association's annual meeting in Trenton. The subject: tax policy, and Laurence B. Patterson who spent a busy week collecting the Borough's quarterly taxes from local residents spent an "evening off" learning more about this serious business!

The Grand Tour. Mrs. Albert Stillman of Plainfield, Chairman of the Princeton Historical Home and Garden Tour, was kind enough to invite the Mayor and his wife as guests of the Garden Club of New Jersey.

The most-heard comment during the tour: "Princeton is BEAUTIFUL — and did you see the blossoms at the Battle Monument?" At least 3,000 guests were impressed, though weary, after a day of inspection.

A Real Response. Being Mayor is not a thankless job, as some people seem to think. There are a few letters to prove this—and many more comments. One of the pleasures of the job is to get such a healthy response to questions that affect us all.

This week, people have come forth with ideas about the future use of the Witherspoon Community House and about the possibilities for using the old Bell Telephone Building as a library or other municipal facility. Another chance to "Tell it to the Mayor!" this Friday from 7 to 10 p.m. at Borough Hall.

A Full Calendar. In addition to the meetings reported here, the Mayor found time to visit the Open House at the new telephone building, to attend the meeting of the Princeton Housing Committee, and to enjoy the Doctors' Wives Benefit Dance, and to help raise funds for the Hospital Medical Library.

Contest's Last Call

Noting that essays are beginning to come in nicely, the Princeton Kiwanis Club this week reminded persons interested in entering the organization's unusual civic contest that the entry deadline is midnight May 15. The club will award $100 to the contestant who submits the best answer to the question, "What do you consider the most worthwhile community project for the Princeton Kiwanis Club to aid annually?" Also, a Kiwanis donation of $1000 will go to the project recommended by the winning response.

Princeton Kiwanians, now in their third year of community service, decided on the essay contest idea in an effort to determine how the funds they raise each summer might be put to good use. Appreciable sums were collected through a benefit performance of the musical comedy "Plain and Fancy," at the Lambertville Music Circus in 1956, and again last year through a similar presentation of "The Pajama Game." This summer, on the night of August 31, the club will sponsor a performance of the recent Broadway hit, "Damn Yankees."

Official entry forms for the contest, which is limited to answers of 300 words or less, may be obtained at Hinkson's, Zinder's Skirm's Smoke Shop, Center Stationers or the Lawrenceville Jigger Shop.

BANKING ON A PROSPEROUS FUTURE: Caught in the process of making a deposit at Nassau Savings & Loan Association, Mrs. Walter Beam informs Town Topics' inquiring reporter she is opposed to an income tax cut at this time. Walter Foster, the association's secretary, concurs with Mrs. Beam, as do most of the Princeton area residents queried for Question of the Week. (Photo by Richards)

Question of the Week

Question: Do you feel an income tax cut is desirable or do you feel it would be inflationary?
Location: Princeton and environs.

Mrs. Walter Beam, 41 Littlebrook Drive, housewife: No, I do not think income taxes should be cut on a national level. Since every group and individual in the country wants special privileges, where are we going to set the limit? Are we going to subsidize the family and business? I think it's difficult to determine exactly what a "standard of living" is, but, in a sense, our taxes reflect it. I think we must open up new phases of production to work out the soft spots in our economy. As far as state revenue is concerned, would be much better than the current hidden taxes, i.e., on gasoline.

Raymond Grover, 35 Chestnut Street, store clerk: An income tax cut at this time would be just fine. A lot of people have bills accumulated from a long, hard winter and need the cash to pay them off. If more cash were put into the economy, then some of the industries which have laid off employees could take them back. And I think the employment situation is pretty serious right now.

Walter Foster, 740 Princeton-Kingston Road, secretary of the Nassau Savings & Loan Association: I am not in favor of an income tax cut, because I don't see how it could have much effect in my individual paycheck. The few extra dollars I might gain would not inspire me to go out and make more purchases. And that's the idea behind a cut. Also, I don't see how our income taxes could be cut without raising the deficit, which doesn't seem to me to be a good idea. Our depositors are continuing to save at their regular rate which indicates they have enough cash to meet their bills as well as their savings program.

Miss Joyce Johnson, Brunswick Pike, stenographer: Call me an idealist, if you will, but I don't think all the money we're spending on missiles and bombs is necessary. I think we could show our good faith by cutting these expenditures and reflecting the cut in lowered income taxes. Then, maybe the Russians would realize we really mean peace.

Kenneth Williamson, 104 East Prospect Street, Hopewell, Rockwell Manufacturing Company executive: I believe a general income tax cut would do more harm than good in combating the recession at this time. Although the individual might benefit immediately, I think inflation would destroy any short-term gains. Such a measure would be of no real help to the country.

William Lewis, Lincoln Highway, Kingston, garage attendant: I think we need all the revenue we can get right now, particularly for aid to education. The debt ceiling is probably going to be raised anyway for national needs, but that isn't going to cover everything. I would rather see our tax money going to education than the military, but I don't think income taxes should be cut in any event.

Daniel Gutman, R. D. 1, Skillman, teacher: From my point of view an income tax cut is undesirable. I don't think we would really be saving anything at all in the long run. In my opinion it would just result in paying more in the future.

Harry Hauptmaurer, Route 27, bread salesman: Let's stop kidding ourselves. Talk about cutting income taxes is ridiculous. We can't afford such cuts at this time, and most Americans know we can't—and gladly accept the fact. As long as there is such a high price tag on government, and particularly the military responsibilities of government, we can't even think about tax-cutting. And, incidentally, I'm beginning to feel a state income tax might be a good idea right now, too.

OLD WORLD VISITORS

Foreign Doctors Train Here. Currently participating in Princeton Hospital's broad teaching program five foreign doctors from widely-separated countries. They are Dr. Belen R. Querubin and Dr. Carmen C. Zita from the Philippines; Dr. Pedro Saurett from Spain; Dr. Albert C. Wang from Formosa; and Dr. Eleanore Herkert from germany.

They are gaining practical experience in the major areas of medicine—surgery, pediatrics and obstetrics—and attending frequent special meetings and teaching conferences with the Hospital staff. At Merwick, they also have the opportunity to work with long-term illnesses.

After completing their residency here on June 30, these doctors plan to continue their training in the United States for at least two more years. Dr. Querubin is interested in developing skills for general practice as is Dr. Eleanore Herkert. Dr. Saurett's field is surgery and neurology, Dr. Wang's obstetrics and gynecology, and Dr. Rosita's pediatrics.

In contrast to many young people in this country, all had definitely decided on careers by their late teens and the two Philippino doctors as early as the age of 16. For them, secondary education was geared to a university degree from an early age and the decision for medicine was made upon its completion.

From five to seven years later, they finished their basic medical training. Pre-medical courses were included in this period, since all subjects were required at the secondary school level with no specialization possible. A sense of dedication toward alleviating human suffering played a vital part in all their decisions.

Internes in Manila. Dr. Zita and Dr. Querubin took a year of internship at the Philippines General Hospital in Manila as part of the requirement for graduation. They have worked together since the time they met at the University of the Philippines and took an additional year of internship at Vassar Brothers Hospital in Poughkeepsie.

Dr. Saurett is a graduate of the University of Madrid's medical school and interned at hospitals in Barcelone. For a time, he was a medical officer of the Spanish Air Force. Prior to his residency here he served St. Peter's Hospital in New Brunswick.

A graduate of the Medical College of National Taiwan University in Formosa, Dr. Wang received his early education in Tokyo. He served his internship and residency at Taiwan University Hospital and came here from Doctors' Hospital in Washington.

Dr. Herkert, who is senior resident, participated in the program in 1955-6. Educated at Heidelberg University, she originally came here from St. Francis Hospital in the Bronx. After her initial residency, she spent some time in Germany and returned to Princeton Hospital in June of last year.

All the doctors commented on the atmosphere of creative intelligence and stimulating inquiry at the Hospital. They also felt the post-graduate program is very well organized.

DR. STEIN ADVANCED

Dr. Kodaira Also Professor. Dr. Harold Stein, well-known political scientist, has been appointed to the position of professor in Princeton University's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. President Robert F. Goheen also announced that Dr. Kunihiko Kodaira has been appointed professor of mathematics.

Although he was originally concerned with literary history and criticism, Dr. Stein had turned his interest to public affairs by the time he left government service in 1947. In 1952 he designed, edited and contributed to a volume of case studies on public administration, and he is presently working on a project on civil-military relations.

While he was with the government, Dr. Stein was Commissioner of War Mobilization and Reconversion, Office of Temporary Controls; advisor and deputy director, Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion; and Chief Mission Officer, Lend Lease Administration, North African Economic Board. He first came to Princeton as a Visiting Lecturer in 1953.

Dr. Kodaira, formerly of the University of Tokyo was the corecipient of the J. C. Fields Medal, presented every fourth year during the quadrennial meetings of the International Congress of Mathemeticians as the group's highest award. A specialist in harmonic intergrals, algebraic geometry, ordinary differential operators and complex manifolds, he came to the United States in 1949 at the invitation of the Institute for Advanced Study and has been a Research Associate at Princeton for the past two years.

Also announced were the appointments of four new assistant professors: Dr. Lionel I. Rebhun, Department of Biology; Dr. Ralph E. Matlaw, Modern Languages; Dr. Walter F. Murphy, Politics; and Dr. James W. Cronin, Physics. These, and the two full professors, will assume their posts next fall.

Dr. Rebhun, who received his M. A. and Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, has been an Assistant Professor in the College of Medicine at the University of Illinois for the past three years. The new assistant professor of modern languages, Dr. Matlaw, is a specialist in Slavic and has lectured at Harvard on Slavic history and literature for the past three years.

Dr. Murphy, who has a research fellow at Brookings Institution, was formerly an instructor at the U. S. Naval Academy. Dr. Cronin is an assistant physicist at Brookhaven National Laboratory, where he

University Announces Grants. Three assistant professors have been appointed to Bicentennial Preceptorships while another five Princeton University faculty members will receive the first Proctor and Gamble Foundation Faculty Fellowships next year, Dr. Robert F. Goheen, president of the University, announced the recipients of the awards for next year.

The Bicentennial Preceptorships carry an award of $500 additional for research expenses a year, along with a one-year leave of absence during the three-year tenure. Established for instructors and newly appointed assistant professors, the Proctor and Gamble grants provide a term's leave of absence and $500 for research during the term.

The new Bicentennial Preceptors are: Edward A. Tiryakin, economics and Sociology; Henry K. Miller, Department of English; and Albert Sicroff, Modern Languages and Literatures. Receiving Proctor & Gamble Foundation Faculty Fellowships are: Dr. Robert H. Rosenblum, instructor, Department of Art and Archaelogy; Dr. Wesley D. Smith, instructor in Classics; Dr. Charles Ryskamp assistant professor of English; Dr. Norman Cantor, instructor in History; and Dr. Richard T. Frost, assistant professor in the Woodrow Wilson School.

TOWNSHIP PTA ELECTIONS

Officers Named For 1958-59. The Princeton Township Parent-Teacher Association has become the Valley Road School PTA and officers have been elected for the upcoming academic year. Mrs. Leslie L. Vivian Jr. is president; John Valentine, first vice-president; Mrs. Richard Pearson, second vice-president; Mrs. Barbara Stokes, recording secretary; Mrs. Henry Sommers, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Don Crave, treasurer.

The formation of the Littlebrook School PTA resulted in the election of the following officers: Mrs. John Cornell, president; Paul Rappaport, first vice-president and Mrs. Archibald Sheeran, second vice-president. Also named as officials were: Mrs. William Jacobs, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, recording secretary and Mrs. Simeon Moss Jr., treasurer.

Mrs. Cornell and Mrs. Vivian represented the PTA at the Mercer County Council's spring meeting. It was announced that the Princeton Township PTA has 1,171 members, the largest number in Mercer County.

DREAM'S BE INNING AT JOURNEY'S END: With the start of landscaping and driveway paving and the completion of painting and cleaning up, the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club's new, $100,000-plus home at Journey's End was almost ready for occupancy this week. Officers estimated that move-in day is about two weeks off, with dedication ceremonies and an open house for governmental officials in the offing shortly thereafter. Exact plans have not been made due to delays in the vital extension of Terhune Road and the okay of a club liquor license by the Township Committee. When the new 98-foot by 70-foot structure is opened, members will make use of a large auditorium, offices, a conference room, a barroom, a kitchen, a basement recreation room and a covered terrace. Most of the facilities, designed by architect Clifford D. Quick and constructed by William Bucci, will be available for rental by different groups. (Town Topics Photo by Hank Chachewksi)

EVERYTHING FOR THE KIDS

Hospital Fete Plans. The Princeton Hospital fete will feature amusements ranging from a continuous show in the "Big Top" to pony rides for the children. Offerings for toddlers to teen-agers have been planned for the June 7 benefit on the Baker Rink Grounds.

In the Big Top there will be a magician, members of the Trenton Clown Club, free movies for the sub-teens and singers for the teen-agers. Youngsters between 2 and 5 may be left in the tot-tender tent, while there will be eight boardwalk type games for the older children.

Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Basil Stetson are co-chairmen of the children's side of the Fete. Mr. and Mrs. Stetson will operate the food tent, and Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Dale of Lawrenceville will take care of the youngsters in the tot-tender tent.

Pony rides at the Fete will be run by T.C. Bennett of Spotswood, who will have two pony carts this year. The Forty and Eight Club of the Trenton Post of the American Legion will bring their steam engine for rides, and a photographer will be at the Fete to catch kids as Farmer Macgregor or human-sized rabbits.

Borough PTA Rummage Sale. The Borough Parent-Teacher Association will hold its spring rummage sale in the Nassau Street School gym during school hours next Thursday and Friday. Assisting in managing the sale will be the room mothers.

Articles for the sale, which might include children's clothes, books, toys and maternity clothes, should be brought to the school on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. In previous years, proceeds from the rummage sale have been used to buy costumes for the cheer leaders at the Witherspoon School and to equip classrooms in the Nassau Street School with record players.

FUN IN PRINCETON

Recreation Survey Highlighted. To find out what Princeton offers in the way of recreation for young people and adults, eight members of the League of Women Voters began last September to make a survey, and they will present a report on their finding this Thursday at 8:15 p.m. at the annual meeting of the Council to be held in the auditorium of the First Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Paul Tillett, chairman of the Council's Recreation Committee, will moderate a panel of four League members who will give highlights of their interviews with representatives of virtually every Princeton organization which carries on recreational activities. The group has also summarized the findings and recommendations of earlier recreation surveys, going back to 1946.

"Our data are still not in their final form," Mrs. Alfred Schwartz, chairman of the League group, reported, "but we are glad to share our preliminary findings with other members of the Council of Community Services.

ST. PAUL'S MAY CROWNING PTA Program Set. The St. Paul's Parent-Teacher Association will hold its annual May crowning Tuesday, at 8 in the school auditorium. The sisters and teachers will meet with parents between 7 and 8.

The girl's choir under the direction of Sister Mary Jonathan, S.M., will sing for the ceremony. Mrs. John B. McNally, PTA president, will be assisted by her daughter, Kerry Ann, who will carry the crown.

After a short business meeting, Mrs. John J. Lanahan, chairman of the Catholic Daughters of America's education committee of Court Moran, will award the poetry prizes. Among the winners are Miss Nancy Mangerum, grade 7, first prize; James Steiger, grade 8, second prize; Joseph Petty, grade 8, third prize and Miss Mena Federici, grade 5B, fourth prize. The recipients are now eligible to enter the state and national competitions sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America.

Refreshments will be served by first grade mothers. The arrangements committee includes: Mrs. Richard Cooke, Mrs. Robert Hamer, Mrs. Henry Rubertello and Mrs. Joseph Coughlin.

Wyman Club To Meet. The students' wives of Princeton University will hold their annual meeting in the Graduate College lounge Monday at 8:15. Officers for the coming year will be elected.

The meeting will also be a farewell to Lady Hugh S. Taylor who has been advisor to the club for many years. Mrs. David Chaplin will lead the madrigal group in a singing program.

For Naturalists. Dr. William J. L. Sladen will show a color film on the life history of the Adelie penguin Friday at 8 in Guyot Hall. Dr. Sladen spent two years observing the penguin colony in Antartica while on a Falkland Dependencies Survey.

In keeping with the season, the Trenton Naturalist Club will conduct a birdwalk on Saturday to observe spring migrants in the Trenton Marshes, Jack Musick

REVENUE FOR PRR

Paid Parking at Junction. Confirming a rumor reported in TOWN TOPICS several months ago, the Pennsylvania Railroad this week announced substantial improvements and accompanying parking charges for the parking areas at Princeton Junction. Lots on both sides of the tracks will be remodeled to provide additional designated paved parking spaces, increasing total parking capacity to about 550 cars.

N. L. Fleckenstine, New York regional manager for the Penney, said a parking charge of 25 cents for up to 12 hours will be instituted after the work of paving, fencing and lighting is completed next month. The same charge, he pointed out, is being paid by commuters and other travelers using improved parking areas at suburban stations at many other points on the railroad.

"For some time we have wanted to improve our Princeton Junction parking facilities, particularly on the eastbound side where the lot is muddy in wet weather and dusty during dry spells," Mr. Fleckenstine commented. "Under present state tax laws, any improvement we make will increase our taxes. With our passenger service operating at a deficit of more than $57,000,000 a year, we cannot afford to assume the additional costs of providing the improvements, plus the permanent increase in our taxes which will result. The income from the parking charge will offset both items of additional cost."

The regional manager said that when the new westbound station was built by the railroad to replace the structure destroyed by fire in December, 1953, tax assessments on the station buildings on both sides of the tracks were increased by $30,000 and the taxes more than doubled.

"The parking lot on the eastbound side will be paved in sections," Mr. Fleckenstine explained, "so it can remain in service while the work progresses. Parking space will be provided in lined areas on the 100,000 square feet of paving and additional cars will be accommodated in metered parking locations along the driveway outside the fenced lot. The smaller westbound lot is already paved."

He said the entrances will have fast-acting, coin-operated automatic gates, each admitting one car as a quarter, or the equivalent in silver coins, is dropped in a slot easily reached from the driver's seat. "While the charge will cover parking for up to 12 hours," Mr. Fleckenstine stated, "passengers will be able to leave their cars for longer periods while staying in the city for the evening or taking overnight trips. Envelopes will be provided at the gates for payment of overtime charges on the honor system."

The Junction improvements, scheduled to be started next Monday, will be made and the lots operated by Maiden Lane Parking Management, Inc. No mention of metering parking property around the Princeton station, owned by Princeton University, was included in announcement of the Pennsy's Junction plans.

The "Why's" For Mercer

Officials of three major companies that are planning, or building, new facilities near Princeton participated last Wednesday in the annual luncheon meeting of the Mercer County Industrial Commission at the Hotel Hildebrecht in Trenton. The three company officials spoke briefly about the reasons their firms chose Mercer County as a site for expanded operations, and about their future plans.

On hand for the special presentations were Arthur B. Collings, vice-president, McGraw-Hill Book Company Inc.; Ray Lutz, director of research and development, Western Electric Company, and B. S. Bowman, marketing director, American Cyanamid Company, agricultural division.

McGraw-Hill has begun construction of a new book distribution warehouse on a 38-acre tract on the Princeton-Hightstown Road in East Windsor Township. Western Electric purchased the former Princeton Film Center facilities on Carter Road, Hopewell Township, together with about 200 acres of land, for its news laboratories for basic and fundamental engineering research. American Cynamid has acquired 600 acres in West Windsor Township to be used for its agricultural experiment center.

THE BEST THINGS IN LIFE USED TO BE FREE: This is how the parking area on the eastbound side of the tracks at Princeton Junction looks any typical day right now — unpaved, muddy when wet, dusty when dry, but free. Next week, the Pennsylvania Railroad will begin construction of improvements and, after they have been completed next month, commuters and other travelers will be assessed 25 cents for up to 12 hours of parking. For details, see Business in Princeton below. (Town Topics Photo by Hank Chachowski)

"YOU AUTO BUY NOW"

PBA Plans Spring Sale. Taking its cue from a catchy slogan, "You Auto Buy Now," that has permeated most of the nation and working hand-in-glove with the Mercer County Automobile Trade Association, which hopes to capitalize on the slogan next week, the Princeton Business Association has mapped plans for a tie-in spring sale. Days for the sale will be May 15, 16 and 17 — climax days for the auto dealers' campaign—and will include many other merchants as well as car sellers and non-PBA members as well as association participants.

Edward A. Clohossey, PBA president, said his executive commitee has been working out the details of the three-day May sales effort for almost a month. The idea was put into public focus here in Princeton, he said, when the association ran teaser advertisements for two weeks in a row "NHUSSS" This week, in an explanatory ad on page 3 of TOWN TOPICS, the PBA has provided the meaning of "NHUSSS — Nothing Happens Unless Someone Sells Something," with the conviction that the association will stimulate needed sales next week.

A close link between the Mercer auto dealers' endeavors and the PBA was provided by Thomas Foody, head of Prince Chevrolet, Inc., who is the newly elected president of the county auto organization as well as an active member of the PBA. Mr. Foody stressed that a special committee of his Mercer group had been set up to spearhead a program of accelerated buying — "positive action"—that would be in keeping with President Eisenhower's mandate that all who can "buy what you need now."

R. Earl Coleman, head of Coleman Buick Co. and chairman of the advertising and public relations committee of the county association, said association's special "Committee for Economic Action" has engaged Fredrick P. Wertheimer, executive director of Public Associates, to work in behalf of the sales boosting drive. "I am sincerely flattered to be one of those chosen to aid this worthwhile cause . . . that of sparking not only the automobile sales trade but also of the entire general economy," Mr. Wertheimer stated.

T. Irving Johnston, president of Johnston Oldsmobile Inc., summed up the philosophy of the car dealers when he observed: "Of course, we want to sell cars. That is our business. But, mass consumer purchases of radios, clothing, hard goods, soft goods, or anything that gives employment is our major goal."

Mr. Clohossey emphasized that the same goal is the goal of the PBA, which will distribute "You Auto Buy Now" streamers for display by all downtown merchants taking part in the comnig sales event. Also, there will be Princeton representation—by retailers from other businesses along with Princeton auto dealers—at a breakfast kicking off the campaign at the Hotel Hildebrecht in Trenton next Monday, and also in a motorcade that will move through Hightstown Princeton and Trenton later next week.

Prof. Eric F. Goldman, member of the Princeton University Department of History, played a prominent role in the two-hour CBS television program, "Concept," on Sunday afternoon. Debating freedom in relation to the welfare state with a Yale contemporary, Prof. Goldman was cited by the New York Times for "virtually stealing the show with his wry humor and deft turn of a phrase."

Airman Third Class David Britton of 15 Madison Street has been assigned to an Air Force base in Libya, North Africa, where he will serve for 18 months as a radio intercept operator. Son of Mr. and Mrs. John Britton, he spent a 39-day furlough at home following completion of a six-month training course in radio intercepion at Keesler AFB, Biloxi, Miss.

Hugh Goodheart, 175 Prospect Avenue, is the first student from Princeton High School to win a National Merit Scholarship. One of over 1,000 selected from the 256,000 who took the qualifying exam, he hopes to attend Harvard University this fall. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Goodheart.

Carol Hersh, 179 Riverside Drive, has received high honors in piano at the Griffith auditions in Newark for the fifth successive year. An eighth-grader at the Valley Road School, she is given piano lessons by Mrs. William Oncken of New Brunswick. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hersh.

George B. Brown Jr., 552 Mercer Road, is listed on the honor roll at Ohio State University. He achieved a high academic average for the winter quarter.

WEATHER PERMITTING

Busy Weekend at Hand. If a repetition of last Saturday's mist-shrouded, rain-dampened atmosphere is not foisted on the Princeton athletic front again this weekend, the busiest schedule of the current spring season will unfold. Baseball and tennis were the principal casualties last week, with four contests washed out, but the lacrosse and track teams are hopeful they will not again encounter the mud and water that hindered them at Cambridge and New Haven.

First Saturday event is the Yale-Princeton baseball game, an Eastern League affair, on University Field at 1. Other varsity events:

Track vs. Cornell, Palmer Stadium, 2 p.m.
Tennis vs. Yale, Church Courts (near Stadium), 2:30.
Lacrosse vs. Yale, University Field, 4.
Crew (see box at right).

Yale Eight the Pick. The 31st rowing regatta that in 1911 inaugurated intercollegiate competition on Lake Carnegie finds Yale the choice to defeat Cornell and Princeton. The Elis have topped Pennsylvania, victor over the Tigers, by a convincing length and a half. Cornell, represented for the past three years by one of the best crews ever to row for a U.S. college, has been riddled by graduation and its 1958 entry was beaten in its debut last week by lightly-regarded Syracuse.

Cornell is the defending champion in the Carnegie Cup race, and has won this event for four of the last five years. Yale was last the victor in 1956; Princeton has not beaten these two traditional rivals in six years, but should give the favored Elis the tougher competition Saturday.

Harvard "Sweeps the River." In contrast to other spring sports events which are always adversely affected by rain, rowing can benefit by an excess of its basic commodity, water. The near-flood conditions and a slight but favoring tail wind were factors last Saturday as Harvard's heavyweight and Princeton's 150-lb. crews both broke Carnegie course records. (For more on the 'fifties, see "We Congratulate," page 25.)

VERSATILE VETERAN: Tom Morris, now in his third year as baseball team's left fielder, was the tailback on last fall's Ivy football champions. (Town Topics Photo by Alan Richards)

The Crimson completely dominated the Compton Cup regatta, winning the varsity and junior varsity races by two and a half lengths and the freshman by better than five. Princeton, finishing second on each occasion, got clear indication of the power in Harvard's flotilla when its varsity was a full two seconds slower than the Crimson freshmen.

Harvard understroked consistently, taking its lead early and yielding nothing as Princeton occasionally raised its beat. The Crimson was clocked in 8:40.6, cutting four-fifths of a second off the mile and three-quarter course record that Cornell had set in winning the Carnegie Cup three years ago.

Massachusetts Tech and Rutgers were also-rans in all three races, generally finishing four to eight lengths off the pace. With only one senior in its boat, Harvard is apparently set to move forward again as an eastern rowing power and then stay there for a while.

Saturday's Crew Schedule

Five crew races involving Cornell, Princeton and Yale are on the schedule for Saturday's Carnegie Cup Regatta. They will begin at 4:30 and continue at 15-minute intervals, with the finish near the dam at the Kingston end of the lake.

All races will cover 1¾ miles. The schedule:

Princeton vs. Yale
4:30—Second Freshmen
4:45—Third Varsity
Cornell, Princeton, Yale
5:00—Freshmen
5:15—Junior Varsity
5:30—Varsity

Doubleheader vs. Yale. Tiger baseball and lacrosse teams will entertain Yale at University Field Saturday. The Nassau nine, going nowhere this season, will attempt to better its sixth place standing against the Elis, who have only an outside chance to retain the title they have held for the past two seasons.

Dartmouth and Harvard began the week still unbeaten, but the schedule favors the Indians, who have all their remaining games at home. As usual, rain has caused numerous postponements, and inability to reschedule a number of the washed-out contests may determine the outcome of the 1958 race. It has several times in the past.

Rained out against Rutgers (with next Monday at 4 set as the replay date), the Tigers played only one game last week and lost that. As it has on other occasions, defeat came in the ninth inning, Pennsylvania rallying from a 3-2 deficit to a 6-3 victory.

A three-run homer with two away chased home the winning tallies, with Herm Belz the victim on the Quakers' River Field. The Princetonians took a 3-9-1 mark into Wednesday's game against Lafayette at Easton.

Brighter Days. After solid beatings at the hands of the nation's best, Princeton's lacrosse team is finding Ivy opposition much to its liking. Ferris Thomsen's defending champions thumped Pennsylvania, 16-4, and Harvard, 12-3, in their first two league games last week.

Yale, Dartmouth and Cornell remain on the schedule, along with a non-league affair against Rutgers at New Brunswick next Wednesday. The clash with the Elis this weekend is likely to provide a full share of action in what is invariably a rough, fast-moving sport.

Tennis Title at Stake. The victor in the Princeton-Yale tennis match on Saturday is virtually certain to be the 1958 champion in the Eastern Intercollegiate League, John Conroy's racket squad is the defending titleholder, and lost only the number six player from last year, but Yale is unusually strong. It figures to be a close battle all the way.

In other events this weekend, Princeton's track team plays host to Cornell in Palmer Stadium, while the golfers will make their bid for the intercollegiate title at New Haven. Indication of the trouble ahead for the track team came last Saturday, when Cornell beat Harvard by nearly 20 points in a triangular meet with Penn. Fortnight ago, Harvard was some 30 points better than Princeton.

POINT PROVEN

PHS On Top, 13-3. Described 10 days ago by Captain Bryce Chase as a team with "new-found confidence," Princeton High's baseball club quickly lived up to the label by crushing Long Branch High, 13-3, on the shore field last Friday. Harry Zoll, coach of the Little Tigers, said afterwards that his players have developed a healthy cockiness in recent weeks. "It's almost as if they urged the Branchers to 'eat us if you can' and they couldn't," Zoll observed.

George Wilson, at the seasons' outset a potentially dangerous hitter who almost didn't make the varsity as senior this spring, finally exploded the potential he had stored up for so long. Following a hit-and-run homer to left and a rally-concluding single in Princeton's eight-run first inning, he stroked a two-run single in the Little Tigers' four-run second frame and blasted a 330-foot solo round-tripper over the right-field fence in the fourth. In all, he went four-for-five against Long Branch.

The rest of Princeton's safeties were singles, but they were well-bunched for the winners' top production in many a moon. Wilson's first home run behind Chase's lead-off walk started the devastation, then a hit batsmen (Jack Hawkins), a pass to Joe Chibbaro and singles by Steve 'Hogarty, Alan Ammerman, Jack Hdulzinski, Jack Lackey and Wilson accounted for the opening salvo. In the second, two more walks (Chibbaro and Chase again), another hit batsman (Hawkins again) and singles by Ammerman, Arnie Skaar, Lackey and Wilson put the contest on ice.

Lackey, PHS' sophomore flash, enjoyed a good afternoon on the mound as well as at the plate. The talented lefthander struck 10 Branchers over the seven-inning course, walked only three and permitted five hits, three of them in the sixth. In support of his second triumph in three starts and the Little Tigers' third success in five outings, Lackey's teammates erred only once, as opposed to three Long Branch miscues.

Wilson, of course, paced the Princeton victory parade. But he wasn't all alone in his collection of timely base hits. Ammerman, Hdulzinski, Skaar and Lackey batted two-for-four, while Chase and Hogarty were one-for-three. "It was a memorable day," Zoll exuded.

This Wednesday, the red-hot Princetonians were slated to meet Lawrenceville School in Lawrenceville—too late for a final report in the current issue—and Friday, at 3:30 p.m., they will back home for a return engagement with the Branchers. Next Monday, PHS will travel to play Hamilton High, an April victim of Zoll's club.

SIGNALS CROSSED

Little Tigers Race THIS Week. Contrary to a report in last week's TOWN TOPICS, Princeton High's track team will be represented at the annual Long Branch Relays this weekend. The earlier story stated that the meet was scheduled for last Saturday, but was incorrect because of a mix-up in dates listed on the Little Tigers' original spring slate.

Thus, Coach Win Niles' aspirants, who have been anything but impressive in three dual meet outings to date, will have plenty of time to get set for their next match, against Pennsbury High here at 3:30 p.m. next Monday. "I think we'll show some improvement," the ever-optimistic coach observed this week.

At Long Branch, only the mile relay quartet will be entered. Included are Marty McGuinn, John High, Ken Cooper and Jim Kennedy.

RAIN FALLS

But Not Midget Favorites. Despite an appreciable amount of early-season rainfall, which wiped out four first-week games, the 1958 Midget League, coordinated the Princeton YMCA, launched its newest campaign last week. And, while the rain fell hard, the pre-campaign favorites in each division did not.

In the National loop, the perennially potent Pirates of Plainsboro got off winging by routing the Redlegs, 9-1, and the Braves,

WE Congratulate

AL POVEY
150-lb. Crew Coach

Taking over a coaching position with an inheritance of 21 straight victories is no easy task. One more success will be given strictly routine news treatment, whereas a defeat that shatters the triumphant skein will bring emphatic and adverse headlines.

Day after the first race in which Princeton's 150-lb. crew competed under his guidance, Al Povey, 33-year-old native of Reading, England, could find such headlines on the Sunday sports pages. "Cornell Lightweights Beat Princeton 150's by Ten Feet to Shatter Tigers' Long Winning Streak."

It was a rugged sort of baptism for the transplanted Britisher, at Princeton only since last fall and in the U.S. for less than three years. Not that there was any great pressure on him to make sure that victories kept rollinng in — it's just that no one likes to lose, particularly his first time out.

A short week after the lightweights' debut under Povey, they went to the stake boats on Carnegie to defend the Wood Hammond Cup against a good Pennsylvania crew. Another streak hung in the balance: Princeton had held the Hammond trophy for the past five years.

Six minutes, 29.4 seconds after the referee had set them in motion, the Tiger 'fifties not only had a four-length victory over Penn but had shattered the course record. Their time was 1.6 seconds better than that credited to the Nassau shell when it won the Eastern Sprint Championships here two Mays ago.

Povey came to Princeton from Dartmouth last September, when Don Rose, whose lightweight crews never lost under his direction, moved on to the head coaching job at Columbia. Before Hanover, N. H., his address was the University of Reading in England and for three years during World War II, he could be reached in care of the British Navy. The water—as a seaman, oarsman and coach—has always made him feel at home.

The short season has already written an end to Carnegie Lake appearances for the Princeton lightweights, who will row on the Housatonic and Charles Rivers for the next two Saturdays in defense, respectively of the Goldthwait and Joseph Wright Cups. Off last Saturday's record - breaking performance—a solid comeback following the early-season defeat—chances are that Al Povey will enjoy reading Sunday morning's headlines.

6-2. The Redlegs also dropped a shutout to the Dodgers, 15-0, while the Cardinals topped the Giants, 6-2.

The hustling Orioles scored all five runs in the final inning to edge the Red Sox, 5-4, and steal the opening spotlight in the American Circuit. In other contests, the Yanks bombed the Indians, 13-4, and the Athletics blanked the Indians, 1-0, then the A's bowed to the Tigers, 15-5.

BOWLING NOTES

DISTAFF SHOWDOWN: Final matches of the season in the Women's Industrial League will be played at Princeton Recreation Center this Friday night, with the outcome very much in doubt . . . favored Nassau Service (104 wins) will strive to defeat the seventh-place Ups and Downs and thereby meet the challenge of runner-up Cifelli Electric (103), which gained appreciably on the top club last week . . . the loop's victorious team will engage in a play-off with the campaign's first-half champions, the 5 Jills, who succeeded last week in temporarily derailing the Nassau Service second-half express . . . with four distaff bowlers rolling 200-plus games in a remarkable display, Gil DeVido's 209 and Carole Harris' 204-201 spacked the Jills . . . other leading scorers were Irma Mihan, 203, Barbara Danser, 201, Marilyn Silvester, 194, Marge Drummond, 188, Betty Frazer, 182, and Millie Trani, 180 . . . in the Princeton Women's Bowling League, the Bermudians (81) and the Alykats (79) closed in on pace-setting Town Topics (84) with one night of bowling to go . . . top soloists were Jean Petrone, 201, and Marilyn Silvester, 201-181, followed by Sara Huneycutt, 199, Marge Kovalakides, 198, Barbara Danser, 193-171, Ann Simonson, 182, Edna Thamas, 182, Sara Rose, 178, Jean McDowall, 177, Marilyn Lowe, 176, Liz Barclay, 173-173, and Millie Trani, 172.

CLOSE AND NOT-SO-CLOSE: Third-ranking Grover Lumber (52) took two of three games from front-running Tiger Garage (74) in the Princeton "A" League this past week, but second-place Farr Hardware (54) failed to narrow the margin between first and second, and the loop's "race" was all over but the shouting . . . Bill Seuferati's 210 was the lone 200-plus game registered by "A" keglers . . . in the Princeton "B" League, Titus Motors (66) made a down-to-the-wire battle of it

GOOD FOUR-TUNE FOR GOOD FOURSOME? This quartet of capable bowlers, four-fifths of Nassau Service's high-riding club in the Women's Industrial League, will find out this Friday evening if a crack at the circuit's '58 play-offs is to be realized (for details, see Bowling Notes). Included are (left to right) Betty Drummond, Marilyn Lowe, Marge Drummond and Betty Kleiber. Missing: Joyce Spain of New Brunswick. (Town Topics Photo by Hank Chachowski) tribution amounted to 15 percent of their wages and salaries for the period involved.

Of the 15 percent received, 10 percent is paid into a non-contributory retirement trust and 5 percent goes into a profit-sharing fund. The amounts paid into these trusts, with respect to each eligible employee, are allocated and recorded in individual accounts.

Further, G&R's board of directors has presented to permanent employees not yet eligible for the retirement and profit-sharing plans a cash bonus equal to 5 percent of their wages and salaries for the year. The bonuses were announced officially at an employee meeting, at which company officers also reported on last year's operations and charted objectives for the current year.

STILL PIONEERING

Coup for Fulmer & Bowers. A method of fabricating pre-cast reinforced concrete loading dock canopies on the construction site has been developed by the design-construction team of Fulmer & Bowers, architects, and Lewis C. Bowers & Sons, Inc., builders, of Princeton. This team pioneered in the development and perfection of tilt-up, pre-cast reinforced concrete wall panels for industrial construction.

O. Kline Fulmer, partner in the architectural firm, and Raymond A. Bowers, president of the construction organization, said this week that many of the same advantages gained in the development and use of pre-cast wall panels apply to the new vaulted canopies. They noted that the canopies are particularly advantageous in construction of warehouse distribution centers and other structures which have large portions of the building devoted to shipping and reciving operations.

This method of fabricating canopies on the site simultaneously with other stages of construction permit close coordination of construction scheduling. Canopies can be cast, cured and made ready to be secured to the structure at the precise moment they are required.

Too Soggy for Softball. The most promising season in the history of the Princeton Community Softball League will get off to a delayed start at 6:15 p.m. this Thursday, held up for 48 hours by weather that has been much too soft even for softball. All eight teams are slated to see action in the revamped loop, which this year, for the first time, conducts games two evenings a week—weather permitting, of course.

In the opening contests, Nassau Social Club will meet the Sportsmen at Gulick Field, Cenerino's A.C. will play ASCOP at Bedford Field, Sannino's will engage Drake's at '95 Field and the Princeton Orioles will face Town Topics at Laughlin Field. Tuesday's scheduled openers will be made up in the near future, according to Bink Fisher, league chairman for 1958.

When the PCSL swings into the second week of its 14-week campaign (28 games for each club, including four against each other opponent), the following encounters will be scheduled for next Tuesday evening: Cenerino's vs. Sportsmen, '95 Field; Sannino's vs. ASCOP, Marquand Park; Princeton Orioles vs. Drake's, Bedford Field, and Nassau Social Club vs. Town Topics, Gulick Field.

CLOSE ONE LOST

Johnny Huns Edged, 2-1. Midseason form was flashed by opposing pitchers this past week as Delbarton shaded Hun School, 2-1, in Morristown. George Martin for the winning club and Fred Andrew for the Red and Black looked especially good as each exhibited excellent control and each limited the other team to four hits. Martin struck out four and walked none, while Andrew fanned five and gave up three passes.

Hun drew first blood in the opening frame, scoring its sole run of the afternoon on a pair of Delbarton errors, the second a two-base misplay with two outs on the visitors. In the third, the home side tallied twice for the only runs it got or needed. A walk, a single, an overthrow by the Johnny Huns' usually reliable shortstop, Tommy Petrone, and an errant pick-off peg by Andrew handed Delbarton the ball game.

The Red and Black almost fought back successfully in the final inning, but finally dropped decision No. 2 in six tries after having a runner thrown out at the plate and leaving another player stranded at third base. Surprisingly, only two Hun performers managed to hit Martin, both Captain John Kemnick and third sacker Mashall Jenny going two-for-three.

At 3:15 p.m. this Thursday, weather permitting, Coach Bob McGivney's Princeton prepsters will engage Tower Hill here, in a make-up of the April 29 contest that ended in a 1-1 deadlock down in Wilmington, Del. Next Wednesday, also at home, the Johnny Huns will meet Peddie School for the only time this season. Tuesday's rain-postponed encounter in New Hope against Solebury, with its fine hurler, Bill Warner, who struck out 19 in a game just last week, will be played later in May, as will the contest with George School, washed out back on April 12.

Fencing Anyone? Experienced fencers and novices are welcome to join the newly-organized Princeton Fencing Club, which meets regularly every Thursday from 8 to 10 p.m. at the Witherspoon Street YMCA. Fencing master of the club is Stanley Sieja, fencing coach at Princeton University.

Interest in fencing began with a course in the sport in the Adult Education program at Princeton High School. Those whose interest was aroused by this course, along with some fencers with previous experience, banded together to form the Fencing Club, with Norman Hyman as president and Mrs. Jeanne Schlesinger, secretary.

Mr. Sieja will give instruction in oil, sabre and epee for those interested. For information about joining the group, call Mr. Sieja at WAlnut 4-0024 or attend one of the weekly sessions.

THE PRINCETON AREA PLANS TO APPLY RADIATION TO PETROLEUM TECHNOLOGY: This complex subject will be studied in the nuclear research center to be constructed for Socony Mobil Oil in Hopewell Township. Ground was broken for the new structure on April 30. The installation, to be built by John McShain, Inc. of Trenton, will house 2,000,000 electron volt accelerator and a "hot" cave which will employ used fuel elements from a nuclear reactor as a source of intense radiation. It will have concrete walls three feet thick, a "hot" laboratory equipped for the manipulation of fission-waste radio isotopes and counting laboratories for assaying the radio-active materials which will be supplied by Industrial Reactor Laboratories.

The Duncan Hines Family includes all of the eating, lodging and vacation places listed in the 1958 editions of the three Duncan Hines books, "Adventures in Good Eating," "Lodging for a Night" and "Vacation Guide."

PERSONNEL NOTES

Loar L. Quickle of Pennington, manager of the F. W. Woolworth Company store in Princeton at 116 Nassau Street for the past several years and a 27-year employee of the national firm, has resigned his position and left the company. Mr. Quickle, who has yet to announce his business plans for the future, except to state that he hopes to remain in the Princeton area, was president of the Princeton Business Association during its rejuvenation period last year.

Ralph O. Robertson, for almost five years vice-president and marketing director of Geyer Advertising, Inc., and a 22-year veteran of the Colgate-Palmolive Company, has been appointed director of advertising for Pharmo-Craft Corporation, now located in nearby Cranbury. The company with which Mr. Robertson became affiliated last week produces Coldene proprietaries, Fresh toiletries and other items.

John Blackton, formerly assistant manager of the National Shoes store in Trenton, has been promoted to the position of manager of National's store in the Princeton Shopping Center. Currently in its 35th year, National Shoes, with a 146-unit chain, is the largest independent retail shoe chain in the country.

Expensive Parking. Six overtime parking tickets cost Charles E. Jackson, 30, $75 in Borough Court this week. Magistrate Theodore T. Tams fined Jackson, of the Clarksville-Grovers Mill Road, after he pleaded guilty to the charge of disregarding the six tickets.

Also in Borough Court, Edward B. Warren, 18, 52 Bayard Lane, was fined $20 for driving without a hood. Magistrate Tams fined another teen-ager, Willard Still, 19, 75 Clay Street, $15 for going the wrong way on a one-way street.

Two Fined in Township. Magistrate Louis R. Gerber fined two drivers Tuesday night in a brief Township Court session.

James Moore, 32, 73 Clay Street, paid $50 for driving after his license had been revoked. John Sloan, 38, Opossum Road, Skillman, was fined $30 for careless driving.

In Trenton, the Department of Motor Vehicles announced that it had revoked for an indefinite period the license of Ernest Simpson, 288 Witherspoon Street. He was convicted in Pennsylvania last December of driving while under the influence of alcohol.

"I Shot An Arrow." Princeton's Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, Local 130, will sponsor an archery exhibition at 1 p.m. this Saturday at the Armory on River Road. The exhibition featuring archers who can split apples and blow out candles with an arrow, is designed as a preview of the archery program for boys between 9 and 18 which the PBA will start on May 17.

Applications for the archery program are available at both Borough and Township police stations and at the Armory on Saturday. Patrolmen Daniel Hagadorn and Michael Carnevale are supervising the program which will use community volunteers as instructors.

News Of The CHURCHES

KNOW YOUR PASTOR
(Seventh in a Series)

Meet Mr. Gettier. He was born in North Carolina. Although the south still shows itself in his speech, the Southern Baptist theology in which he was brought up has long since disappeared from his thinking. Straughan Gettier became a Unitarian because "I was appalled at the sectarian spirit of the Southern Baptist church and became interested in religion in its universal aspects."

He says that he was briefly othestic, then agnostic, then joined the Unitarian Church in Richmond "and continued my evolution from there."

A man who lives what he believes, regardless of cost, Mr. Gettier spent over two years in Federal prison during World War II because he could not reconcile the war with his principles.

"I felt that a war in which we were allied with one monstrous dictatorship against another was not a war of principle in which I could honestly participate," he says. "I was also appalled by the idea of war as a method of national policy and I felt that war had actually been used as an instrument of national policy.

"It seemed to me that there must be another way of developing national attitudes and I did not see how I could explore that way and be committed to the other way at the same time. The conscriptive process forced men of good will in every nation to seek to destroy each other; every combatant nation suppressed oil vocal opposition to national policy. I felt strongly enough about these things then to jail rather than support them."

Prison Life Recalled. Mr. Gettier recalls his experiences in Federal correctional institutions (he was never quite wicked enough to be sent to a penitentiary) without bitterness and with some humor: how prison authorities insisted on regarding him as different from the run-of-the-mill criminals, and how he insisted that, since his three-year-sentence was longer than, say, the sentence of a man up for attempted murder, he should be treated as an even more dangerous member of society; how he was restrained with barbed wire and handcuffs; how he determined to cooperate with prison authorities until it became clear that he could not cooperate and keep his dignity.

Sent as a model prisoner to Millpont Honor Camp, he found it so intolerable that he went on a work strike, although he knew that this would land him in Ashland, Kentucky at one of the government's toughest prisons. It did. It also sent him to solitary for ten days. His sentence (reduced by eight months for good behavior) was rounded out with 18 months of work as lab. technician and pharmacologist with the prison doctor.

Following another skirmish in which he was falsely arrested and kept in jail for three months after his parole had legally expired, Straughan Gettier returned to the University of Richmond, took his B.A., then went to Harvard Divinity School from which he was graduated in 1949.

YOUR MOVE: Stacey Gettier plans to cut his father down to size in a family chess match while brother Leigh kibitzes. Watching over his 197-member Unitarian congregation doesn't leave the Rev. Straughan Gettier much time for chess or for biking with his family, which he likes to do. He does a lot of biking around town, however, even into the bite of a winter wind or under a summer heat wave.

At Work Here. Coming to Princeton in October, 1953 from his first parish in West Roxbury Unitarian church, Boston, Mr. Gettier has seen his congregation double in size in four and one half years. Like all ministers, he is always on call for members of his church who need help.

"When I was ordained," Mr. Gettier says, "I had printed in my ordination vow that I would never reveal the confidences of people who needed my help. That's a protection for me, and it makes it easier for people to tell me all a minister has to know in order to be a counsellor."

A carefully blocked out timetable keeps Mr. Gettier's busy days and evenings in order. Planning the new church building has taken many of those evenings, and many more will be taken by Mr. Gettier's new position as chairman of the Princeton Housing Group.

And of course there are Unitarian meetings, and last week, a trip to the Harvard Divinity School to express the Gettier opinion on Harvard's restriction in the use of the chapel.

"My concern is that a University which is supposed to be international in its concern and in its faculty and student community, should be parochial and secular in the use of its facility for religious purposes. But wait!" he laughs, "I'm repeating myself: that's just what I said in my speech!"

HUNGARY AND GHANA

Dr. Mackay's Trip. The president of Princeton Theological Seminary Dr. John A. Mackay, returned recently from a trip to three of the world's most exciting areas: a Hungary only one year removed from revolution, a country—Ghana—that is the second newest nation in the world and Nigeria, which is the largest country on the African continent.

Dr. Mackay met with Hungarian government representatives in an effort to improve relations between the Reformed church's 2,000,000 Hungarian members and the Hungarian state. The question: to what extent should the government have a say in the nomination or approval of bishops appointed by the church? The answer, of course: the government will continue to insist on approving all bishops.

"The Protestant church is actually freer in Hungary than it is in, let us say, Spain," says Dr. Mackay, "the government subsidizes the church and allows it freedom to carry on its preaching and teaching. Church publications, however, are censored."

Dr. Mackay talked with Hungarian officials frankly, assured them that he wasn't trying to tell them what to do, and that the Reformed church was prepared to cooperate with them.

Dark Continent Alight. In Ghana, Dr Mackay presided as chairman of the World Association of the International Missionary Council. This was the first worldwide church gathering to convene in Africa in modern times. Africa, Dr. Mackay feels, "is an awakening giant—you can feel the surge of life." He believes that nationalism will be strong, but that "Africanism" will be perhaps equally important.

In Nigeria, 25 African nations participated in the first All-Africa Christian Conference, and a Nigerian presided. Although Dr. Mackay agrees with other observers of the African scene that colonialism is "out", he experienced no anti-white feeling and no feeling on the part of Africans that missionary work is a kind of colonialism.

Women's Association Meets. Mrs. T. Cuyler Young will speak on "New Explorations in Near East India" at the next meeting of the Women's Association of the First Presbyterian church to be held next Monday at 12:45 p.m., Mrs. Bruce Metzgec is in charge of the program.

Secrets, Politics Scored

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

In the welter of confusing proposals, counter proposals, revisions and rumors concerning plans for the proposed junior-senior high school in South Brunswick Township, one point—of major importance—has been assiduously avoided by the Board of Education; namely, the reasoning behind the selection of the site.

In all discussions, it has been indicated that the school would be built on a 20-acre plot, owned by the Board, at Major Road and Kingston Lane. The only reason, apparently, for selecting this location is that it is at the approximate geographical center of the Township.

A number of questions are in order concerning this property:

1) Is the Major Road site the best location? If the center of potential high school population is more significant than geographical center, if minimizing school bus transportation costs is important, then obviously the Major Road location is not the most desirable.

2) Is it large enough? Obviously not! The Board admits that 20 acres are barely suitable for the necessary buildings, with little space for athletic fields or outdoor recreation. The Board further indicates that it hopes to purchase an additional 15 acres adjoining the tract. It has no firm option or fixed price on this land nor is there any provision in the amount of the proposed bond issue to cover this purchase.

3) Have any alternative sites been considered? The Board said initially that no suitable alternate was available! This "spite" the fact, as now disclosed, that the Township of South Brunswick and our Board of Education own today and have owned for some time a tract totaling over 60 acres off New Road and Route 1. Here is a tract of adequate size, in a location much closer to the true center of potential high school population. Why has the Board a) never made public the availability of this land and b) refused to answer questions concerning it?

The original bond proposal was rejected by the voters in February. Perhaps because it was uneconomic. Perhaps because the site was too small. Most probably, however, because the proposal was not publicized properly until the close of registration to vote on the issue. The voters may well have felt that they were not properly informed on all factors involved. WE HAD HOPED THAT THIS WOULD NOT HAPPEN AGAIN!

We believe that a fine and adequate South Brunswick High School is both needed and wanted NOW. We also believe it should be based on sound economics, thorough planning and with complete information available to the people of the Township. Should not consideration be given to a change of site which could possibly represent a savings of $100,000? A postponement of the voting date would be of no significance, since the school is not to be ready for occupancy until September, 1960, anyway.

Let's try, as far as we are able, to build the right school, at the right price, in the right location and, far more difficult, let's try to remove this all-important school issue from local politics and tolerate no secrets which conceal or distort facts.

A Non-Ignorable Sum

To the Editor of TOWN TOPICS:

I read with interest your Question of the Week regarding Kendall Park. In my opinion, Princeton might well look to such new surrounding developments for revenue, but should not disregard its long-standing, sound, clean revenue from Lawrenceville and northern Lawrence Township.

I refer to the pending issue of students who may or may not attend Princeton High School from this area after this year. A hearing at the State Department of Education will be held on May 27th to decide the issue. The association of our two school systems throughout the years has closely aligned our two communities. With the possibility of students attending Trenton High School, it is inevitable that their parents will follow to Trenton with their dollars!

Unfortunately, we concerned are the victims of a decision made years ago by our own school board members, who were either short-sighted or ill-advised, thus making a grave error in judgment. This situation came into the public eye only this year and has been a shock, and of great concern to us all.

I feel it would be to our mutual advantage to permit our students to continue to attend Princeton High School. There are a total of 83 Lawrence Township students now attending your high school to the tune of $525 per student, bringing your school system $43,575 per year. The accompanying money spent in the stores in Princeton is a handsome sum which cannot easily be ignored.

THEY'RE LOYAL TO TRINITY: Some 600 parishioners of Trinity Episcopal Church went out in the rain to Princeton High School last week to express their devotion to the church and their willingness to join in the drive to raise half a million dollars for construction of new parish buildings in Princeton Township. So far, the campaign has raised $204,000 in pledges and gifts. The bulk of solicitation will be completed by May 15. Here, in a group portrait that reminded one observer of Leonardo's "Last Supper," are church officers who are helping the campaign to success. Left to right: Samuel D. Cry Unto Him

The smallest Presbyterians are not always attentive during a service. This means that their mothers are not attentive either, or sometimes not even attending, for that matter.

To remedy this, Kingston Presbyterian has turned one of its balconies into a "Cry Room" where mothers may sit with their young children or leave them with the mother in attendence. The room has sliding glass panels which provide a picture-window view of church and pulpit. The glass isn't exactly sound-proof, but it's sound resistant enough to keep little voices from intruding. There's a public address system so mothers can hear the service and participate in it as much as possible.

A "Cribbery" in a screened off corner provides sleeping space for, as the Rev. Henry Heaps puts it, "a litter of five." Playpens are available for those who have outgrown the Cribbery.

The "Cry Room," which was the Rev. Mr. Heaps' idea, was donated by a member of the congregation and it will be dedicated, appropriately, this Mother's Day. The renovation of the balcony has been simple and not in a nursery theme, so that the area can be used for adults if necessary.

camp in preparation for its participation in the council camporee May 24. The troop's four patrols set up tents at the troop campsite and held contests in nature, knot tying and measuring.

Members of the troop participating included Robert Bennett, John Lampman, James Lampman, Douglas Pohl, Russell Farkouh, Roland Livingston, David Dickey, Edwin Kimble Jr., Clay Jones, Michael Steele, Douglas Jiggins, Bruce Olsen, Kenneth Jiggins, Kevin Thomas and James Wallace. Troop leaders supervising the overnight camp were Frank Fornoff, scoutmaster and William Hoffman, Hans Maehly and Bruce Rankin, assistant scoutmasters.

BERKSHIRE FARM APPEAL

Funds Sought Here. Mrs. Bevis Longstreth is chairman of the Princeton committee in charge of raising money for the Berkshire Industrial Farm, a year-round home and school in Canaan, N.Y., for boys with serious emotional problems. The farm seeks to help each boy find a new attitude and a new way of life without resorting to walls and bars, and its records indicate success with over 75 per cent of the cases. Extensive vocational training, in addition to an elementary school using modern techniques, form the bases of Berkshire's program.

Assisting Mrs. Longstreth in the week's fund-reiting project are Mr. and Mrs. Carl Breuer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Erdman Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Richard V. Lindabury, Mr. and Mrs. David H. McAlpin, Mrs. Minot C. Morgan, Prof. William K. Prentice, Mrs. Fenn Stafford, Mrs. Norman B. Tooker, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wallace Jr., Mrs. Charles B. Worden and Mrs. W. H. York. Contributions, which are deductible for income tax purposes, should be sent to Mrs. Longstreth at 25 Palmer Square West.

The money given wil go toward scholarships, since a large part of the farm's cost must be met through voluntary gifts. It is felt that the longer the delay in training and educating these boys, the greater the cost to society.

ELIZABETH JAMES says:
Gentleman's Estate

This attractive 67-acre farm-estate, beautifully situated with panoramic view of country side has most attractive grounds including one acre lake for swimming or boating. It is also the best buy of the year. The owner, who is leaving for the West Coast has just reduced the price from $75,000 to $55,000. The old stone manor house, set well back from the road, has wide entrance hall, large living-room with fireplace, large dining-room with walk-in fireplace, modern kitchen. Four bedrooms, 2½ baths. Among the other buildings charmingly grouped are a stone and frame barn, stone spring house, smokehouse, carriage house, as well as frame toolhouse. Entire property in perfect condition. A beautiful buy for only $55,000.

If you want to rent, buy or sell anywhere in Bucks County, call us.

A LOT FOR A LITTLE
for $21,000

This pretty 19th century house on a quiet street in a nearby village is an appealing combination of charm, space, condition and price. Living room, large dining room, den and cheerful kitchen, all attractively decorated, make up the first floor. On the second are three good-sized bedrooms and a small one, perfect for a nursery. The basement has playroom, storage and workroom space, while the closets are surprisingly fine for an old house. The outside has appeal too. Lovely trees, pretty landscaping, stone wall in front, fencing at sides and back, summer house, barbecue, two-car garage with attached workshop—it all adds up to a lot of living for little (taxes $130) money.

ELEGANCE AND EXCELLENCE
for $74,500

Excellent in construction, elegant in detail throughout, this lovely West end Borough brick home is perfect for a couple who appreciate fine things combined with convenience. Located in a park-like setting within walking distance of town, the house is impressive inside and out. Large living room and library both have beautiful imported antique mantels, as does the huge master bedroom. Antique chandeliers, sconces and brasses add more beauty of the past, while modern kitchen, master dressing room, two other large bedrooms, fine baths and beautiful landscaped terrace highlight the conveniences of the present.

UNIQUE SPRING LISTINGS

RECESSION, DEPRESSION, INFLATION—Meet whatever comes in this country house in perfect condition on an acre of land. Complete relaxation in the long view from the marvelous screened porch which opens off a very pretty living room with cheerful fireplace; dining room, good kitchen and lavatory on first, four nice bedrooms and tile bath on second. Just the place to hurry home to after the stresses of every-day life. $29,500.

GOOD PLANNING, GOOD CONSTRUCTION, AND MARVELOUS LOCATION - combined to make this house definitely "one of a kind." dignified entrance hall, large, bright, well proportioned living room with a really charming fireplace, dinette, fine kitchen, bedroom and bath on first, roomy master bedroom, bath and dressing room, two other bedrooms and tile bath on second. Lovely sunny terrace overlooking a most attractive garden. $36,000.

WESTERN SECTION—In beautiful condition and beautifully decorated. Entrance hall, living room with fireplace, dining room, nice screen porch, wonderful kitchen, laundry and the best family room we've yet seen and lavatory on first. Four bedrooms and three baths on second. $78,750.

COUNTRY CONTEMPORARY — SPECIAL SALE!

The practical builder of this brand new contemporary house knows that it's better to sell a house fast than to hang on hoping for a huge profit, and his common sense means a good buy for an equally sensible house-hunter. At any price it's hard to beat the convenience of this roomy ranch, located on 1½ acres in a fine Township section.

Spacious living-dining room — 5 bedrooms — 3 baths — den playroom — breakfast room — impressive modern kitchen laundry area air-conditioning — two car garage — storage room — trees
All this, in a rural but child-filled area, for a fast offer in the $40,000's!

140 HAPPY FAMILIES

Reside At Nassau Estates

Here's Why . . .

LOW TAXES: Despite its closeness to Princeton, the tax rate for Nassau Estates home-owners is much lower. Come in and compare . . . and you'll find that you save when you buy here.

GOOD INVESTMENT: A Nassau Estates home is an investment in the future. Extensive industrial and educational expansion enhances value of all Nassau Estates' homes.

Here's Why . . .

LOCATION: Halfway between Trenton and Princeton, Nassau affords home-owners the best location in the entire Delaware Valley. Rider College's new location is nearby plus Shopping and Recreational Centers . . . schools . . . churches.

NATURAL BEAUTY: All the natural beauty has been retained. Wonderful, wide streets and fully landscaped exteriors on a rolling countryside make Nassau Estates the most beautiful community in America.

The builder's builder . . .

Sam Fox has been a builder since 1913. From then until now he has constructed thousands of homes. This is not to celebrate the quantity of homes he has finished, but to dwell on the care, the boundless experience and exacting craftsmanship he has lavished on EACH ONE.

To Mr. Fox a house is not just a routinely-assembled structure of bricks and wood and mortar, but a kind of everyday cathedral — the anchorage of a family's well-being, the steppingstone to its highest hopes.

He shares with the real artists and creators one outstanding trait — an insistence on perfection. His standards are legendary. One associate says that standing anywhere within earshot he can tell from "the sound and rhythm of the hammers whether each nail is going in right." Another comments: "He sifts over every detail of a job like a Scotland Yard detective combing a room for clues." The result is perfection — from the foundation's start to the final meticulous touches on the interior trim.

Ask those who know home-building best about the integrity of the Homes by Fox organization. The suppliers, the contractors, the men who advance the money for mortgages. Better yet, follow their example. Because when these people want homes for their own families they go to Sam Fox — the builder's builder.

He keeps alive amid today's slackening standards and furtive compromise, an old-fashioned desire to build in the finest way he knows how, with complete dedication, solidly and well.
